Guerrillas Threaten To Upset Peace Pact

By The Associated Press

The U.S. ambassador to the United Nations said Wednesday night that he hopes the new Middle East cease-fire proposed by the United States will take effect "very soon." But the Palestinian guerrillas vowed to keep the fighting going, even if it means attacking U.N. truce observers.

Ambassador Charles W. Yost met for three hours with the chief U.N. delegates of the other Big Four powers—Britain, France and the Soviet Union. They passed the word to Secretary-General U Thant that he should send U.N mediator Gunnar V. Jarring back to the Middle East now that Egypt, Jordan and Israel have accepted the U.S. proposal for a 90-day cease-fire and resumption of indirect peace negotiations.

However, there was no indication of just when the acceptances of the U.S. proposal would be translated into orders to stop shooting and stand fast.

Representatives of two Palestinian guerrilla organizations told a news conference in Tripoli, Libya, Wednesday that even if a cease-fire is proclaimed they are prepared "to force U.N. observers off the cease-fire line to keep up the fight against Israel."

While the guerrilla threat promised continued harassment along Israel's frontiers with Jordan and Lebanon, it should have no effect on a cease - fire between Egypt and Israel since there are no Palestinians along the Suez Canal front. The guerrillas already had said they would not be bound by any cease-fire, and the Jordanian government in its acceptance of the U.S. proposal said it could not curb the Palestinians.

Mistrial Plan In Tate Murder Being Shelved

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Defense attorneys, satisfied they have laid the groundwork for a possible future appeal in the Sharon Tate murder case, say they are abandoning their quest for a mistrial based on comments by President Nixon.

Three times the attorneys asked that the trial be called off following President Nixon's comment in Denver, Colo.—later retracted—that he believed one of the four defendants, Charles M. Manson, guilty. Three times Superior Court Judge Charles H. Older has denied the motion.

"This will be one of the biggest cases in history regarding prejudicial publicity," commented coprosecutor Vincent Bugliosi during a break in Wednesday's proceedings.

Highlights:

—A plea by Charles Kanarek, attorney for Manson, 35, that president Nixon be asked to take the witness stand in the case so that defense attorneys might learn his motives in taking up publicly the Manson trial. The motion was denied.

—A plea by Paul Fitzgerald, attorney for Patricia Krenwinkel, 22, for a mistrial on grounds the jury was unduly influenced Tuesday when Manson brandished a newspaper headline in court reading: "Manson Guilty, Nixon Declares." Judge Older, in ruling against the motion, said he was certain the jury could still "render a fair and impartial verdict."

—Manson's three women codefendants arising when the jury returned to the courtroom to chant in unison: "President Nixon says we're guilty, so why go on with the trial,"

PO Overhaul Nears Reality

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House's vote today on the postal reform bill is expected to clear the way for the most sweeping overhaul of the U.S. mails since Congress took control in 1789.

Most observers expected the bill to sail through the House and go to President Nixon.

Rep. H.R. Gross, R-Iowa, who objects to elimination of Congress' prerogative to veto mail rate increases, said backers want to "get that bill through as quickly as possible." He predicted little debate before the roll is called.

Postmaster Gen. Winton M Blount has criticized the measure on grounds it does not go far enough for efficient management. He said he was ready to propose more changes by future Congresses.

Blount complained the procedure for boosting mail rates to cover operating costs is too cumbersome. He said he doesn't have freedom to shop around for the cheapest air transportation contracts and that Congress will continue to subsidize the mails trough 1984.

The bill ends Congress' 161-year control over mail rates, employes' pay and appointment of the local postmaster.

It turns the $7-billion, 32,000-post office mail system over to an independent, corporate-like agency run by 11 governors appointed by the President and confirmed by the Senate.

Bruce Attends First Session

PARIS (AP) — Ambassador David K. E. Bruce made his first appearance at the Vietnam peace talks today as the chief U.S. delegate, but there was no indication his presence would ease the long deadlock.

Leaving the U.S. Embassy for the 78th weekly session of the talks, Bruce told newsmen he would not characterize his entrance into the talks as a new phase but rather as a "continuation." He did say he had "wider latitude" than his predecessor, Philip C. Habib, but did not elaborate.

At the conference building, both the North Vietnamese and Viet Cong delegates gave notice to newsmen that they would not be welcoming Bruce with any modification of their long-standing demands for a coalition government in South Vietnam and unconditional withdrawal of all U.S. forces.

Both the Nixon administration and President Nguyen Van Thieu have made clear that they will not agree to those demands.

South Vietnam likewise had nothing new for the peace talks today. South Vietnamese delegate Pham Dang Lam reiterated Saigon's long-standing peace proposals, including re-establishment of the demilitarized zone, mutual withdrawal of "non-South Vietnamese forces" and internationally supervised free elections.

Guard On Duty In Lima, Ohio

LIMA, Ohio (AP) — National Guardsmen helped maintain order in this industrial city today after racial violence followed the fatal shooting of a Negro woman by police, who say she grabbed an officer's gun and fired at them.

Two law enforcement officers were among four persons wounded by gunfire during Wednesday's disorders.

Gov. James A. Rhodes ordered 350 Guardsmen into the city to help Lima's 80-man police force maintain order at the request of Mayor Christian Morris. A declaration of a state of emergency and a curfew had failed to halt violence. Sheriff's deputies from four counties were also sent in.

Roving crowds threw rocks and bombs, broke windows and sparked other vandalism.

Police raided a Black Panther party headquarters but found it empty.

The shooting of Christine Rick Wednesday afternoon touched off the violence in this northwest Ohio city of 53,000.

The incident occurred while policemen Glen Pierce and Ted Roop, responding to a disturbance call, were arresting a 17-year-old boy on the near south side. The arrest reportedly involved a stolen bicycle.

Police said the woman grabbed Pierce's pistol from his holster and fired at the officers. They took cover and police said Roop used his service pistol to return the fire while Pierce pulled a .38-caliber pistol from his pocket, not a service weapon, and fired. The woman was killed.

Social Services Director Dies

GRAND RAPIDS (AP)—Rupert Kettle, 59, director of the Kent County Department of Social Services, collapsed in his Grand Rapids office and died of an apparent threat attack Wednesday.

Kettle, honored by the state four years ago for outstanding leadership in the social welfare field, was a past president of the Michigan Association of County Social Welfare Boards.

Nixon's Speech About Manson Brings Rebuke

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Hale Boggs, D-La., told the House Wednesday that President Nixon's Denver statement about the Charles Manson murder case was indefensible "and obviously prejudiced the trial."

And Boggs added, a colleague's statement that the press deserved blame in the situation was "the most amazing speech I've ever heard" in 30 years in the House.

In a Denver news conference Tuesday, Nixon said Manson is "guilty, directly or indirectly, of eight murders." His press secretary said later Nixon meant to add the qualifier "alleged."

Boggs, replying to a statement by Rep. Charles E. Wiggins, R-Calif., said Wiggins was "blaming the press for the President declaring a man on trial guilty in a public place, on television."

Wiggins accused the press of abusing its privileges in reporting Nixon's comments on the Manson trial, under way in Los Angeles.

"The President spoke to a small group of newsmen a thousand miles from the Manson trial," Wiggins declared. "He did not say a word to the jury or anyone else connected with that trial. But the press has been veritably shouting the words of the President into the ear of anyone connected with that trial without letting up, for two days, and for what purpose?"

Wiggins said Nixon was wrong in making the remark, but said the President's real error was in not recognizing that "the press would irresponsibly carry his words to the courtroom and possibly prejudice the accused thereby."

House Democratic Leader Carl Albert of Oklahoma said newsmen would have been derelict if they had not reported Nixon's statement.

Concern Mounting On Gas-Dumping In Atlantic Ocean

LONDON (AP) — Britain has informed the United States of mounting concern about American plans to dump lethal nerve gas in the Atlantic Ocean, the Foreign Office announced today.

The British were acting on behalf of the governments in the Bahama Islands and Bermuda, which called for strong representations to the United States. But it was understood the British themselves shared the concern of the islands.

A Foreign Office spokesman said: "We have informed the American government of the concern of the Bahamas and Bermuda governments and the whole question is currently under discussion between us."

The British registered the islands' concern Tuesday through diplomatic channels in London. Discussions are continuing here on the diplomatic level.

Bobby Jr., Shriver's Son Have Court Date

BARNSTABLE, Mass. (AP) — Robert F. Kennedy Jr. and R. Sargent Shriver III, both shaggy haired and grim faced, entered Juvenile Court today for preliminary hearings on charges of being delinquents by reason of possession of marijuana.

The two cousins, both aged 16, were accompanied by their uncle, Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass.; and by Ethel Kennedy, Bobby's mother, and Mr. and Mrs. Sargent Shriver Jr., parents of the Shriver boy, who also is known as Bobby .

The Juvenile Court session before Judge Henry L. Murphy of 1st District Court of Barnstable County was closed to the public by law.

Juvenile sessions are held in private, and the records are not public unless a judge rules a case is serious enough to warrant opening the files.

Juvenile courts usually require the presence of one or both parents of youthful offenders. They are allowed to have lawyers with them.

Police Won't Talk

Police declined to disclose any information about the case under a state law protecting accused persons under age 18.

The summonses served on young Kennedy and Shriver were among five in which juveniles were named defendants in drug cases. The other juveniles were not named.

At the same time, police charged 23 adults with possession or sale of marijuana. Several also were charged with possession or sale of heroin. Their cases were continued.

There was no indication that the Kennedy-Shriver cases were connected with those against the adults. The summonses cited July 10 as the date of Kennedy-Shrover offense. The adult arrests cited dates running back to April 23. None of those charges was made on July 10.

Prison Term Possible

The penalty for possession of marijuana under Massachusetts law can be 3½ years in prison. But the courts generally are lenient with first-offender juveniles, normally releasing them on probation in custody of their parents.

Young Kennedy is the third child among the 11 of the late Sen. Robert F. Kennedy of New York, and his wife Ethel. President John F. Kennedy was the boy's uncle.

Shriver's father stepped down last March as U.S. ambassador to France. His mother, Eunice, is the oldest daughter in the Kennedy family.

Parents Express Distress

First word of the charges lodged against the boys came when their parents expressed their distress.

Mrs. Kennedy said: "Naturally, I was distressed to learn last night that my son has been charged with having been in possession of marijuana on the 10th of last month.

"This is of course a matter for the authorities to decide. But Bobby is a fine boy. We have always been proud of him and I will stand by him.

"My concern is also for my nephew and the families of the other young people."

Shriver Offers Help

Shriver said his son, also called "Bobby" in the family, "has never been involved in any such situation before and we trust he never will be again. We will help him in every way."

Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., the boys' uncle, flew from Washington to Providence, R.I., where a private car met him for the drive to Hyannis Port after he was told of the summonses.

He said he'd rather not discuss the case "until I find out the details of what happened."

Other Children Of Prominent People 'Caught'

By The Associated Press

Robert F. Kennedy Jr. and R. Sargent Shriver III are among a growing list of sons and daughters of persons prominent in government and politics who have been named in cases involving marijuana or other drugs. Among them are:

John P. Cahill, 19, son of New Jersey Gov. William T. Cahill, was arrested twice on marijuana charges this year and ordered to undergo psychiatric tests prior to disposition of the case.

Michael M. Hollings, 19, son of Sen. Ernest F. Hollings, D-S.C., was arrested last May on the New Jersey Turnpike. He pleaded guilty to marijuana charges and received a six-month suspended sentence.

Howard Samuels Jr., 17, son of a former head of the Small Business Administration, was arrested on drug charges last November in Greenwich Village. The charges were dropped Wednesday on the recommendation of the youth's court-appointed counselor.

Randall Brook Unruh, 18, son of Jess Unruh, California's Democratic nominee for governor, was freed of possession of marijuana charges last June due to insufficient evidence.

Teresa Jane McGovern, then 19, daughter of Sen. George S. McGovern, D-S.D., was arrested on marijuana charges in a Rapid City, S.D., motel in July 1968. The charges were later dropped

Black Panthers Leader Released On $50,000 Bail

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Released from jail on bond, Black Panthers leader Huey P. Newton says his militant Negro group will pledge members to help the political arm of the Viet Cong in Vietnam.

Within two hours after his release Wednesday in nearby Oakland, the Panthers' cofounder and minister of defense told newsmen:

"We are going to pledge troops from the Black Panther party to the National Liberation Front."

Newton was free for the first time in 33 months on $50,000 bail awaiting retrial in the 1967 slaying of an Oakland policeman.

When he left Alameda County jail Wednesday, a crowd of about 200 greeted him.

Infant Found In Well

Kidnap Story Hoax, Mother Tells Police

STANTON, Mich. (AP) — A month-old girl, subject of a widespread search since she was reported kidnaped from a car in this west Michigan city Tuesday, was found alive and well in a cornfield northeast of here last Wednesday.

Authorities said the 17-year-old mother of little Amy Foor admitted that she placed the child in the cornfield herself, then made up the kidnaping story.

Montcalm County Prosecutor James Rostash said he was seeking a warrant charging Mrs. Gerald Foor with assault with intent to commit murder. The woman was being held in the county jail pending arraignment.

Mrs. Foor told authorities Tuesday that the infant had been snatched from her car while she was inside a local bank. The report touched off a large-scale search by local authorities and the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

State Witnesses Through In Case Against Collins

ANN ARBOR (AP) — The state finished presenting its witnesses today in its efforts to convict John Norman Collins of murdering an 18-year-old Eastern Michigan University coed.

Skyscraper Fire Kills 2, Injures 35

NEW YORK (AP) — A stubborn, smoky fire in a new, 50-story skyscraper at the tip of Lower Manhattan has killed two security guards and injured 35 other persons, including 24 firemen.

Corpus Christi Appears To Be 'Over The Hump'

CORPUS CHRISTI, Tex. (AP) — Battered Corpus Christi is "over the hump," a city official said, in recovery of essential services knocked out by Hurricane Celia. But small towns nearby still suffered today with scant relief in sight.

Property losses in the Corpus Christi metropolitan area were estimated at $375 million to $500 million.

Curfew Remains

Corpus Christi remained under curfew and armed National Guardsmen patrolled streets from dark to dawn. Looting has been minor, authorities said.

Guardsmen and state police turned back nonresidents at approaches to other communities hit by Monday's storm.

Electric power has been restored to 7,000 customers and to all vital services in Corpus Christi, a utility company spokesman said. Telephone service was available in some areas. Water service was almost completely restored and a city official said supplies are adequate for even major fires.

Electricity Out

Small cities near here, such as Taft, Aransas Pass, Ingleside, Port Aransas and Portland, were still without utilities. All were more heavily damaged than Corpus Christi.

At hospitals minus electricity, a lack of refrigeration put perishable tetanus antitoxins in danger.

Damage to telephone facilities was estimated at $8 million. A utility official said the recovery "will be more of a rebuilding job than a restoration job."

The Coastal Power & Light Co. said it may be several weeks before every home here has electricity again, and even longer in the smaller towns.

Dozens of luxury hotels along the Corpus Christi beach were turned into dormitories for repair crews. Heavy construction equipment jammed nearby streets

Oil Tank Burning

A Sun Oil Co. petroleum storage tank which caught fire during the storm continued to burn early today, lighting the horizon across Corpus Christi Bay. An earthen embankment kept the big fire from spreading.

Many downtown stores in Corpus Christi expected to reopen today, some operating amid bare, unpainted temporary repairs.

Residents in towns without water are receiving typhoid fever shots, and a state medical officer said there were no major health problems.

Shriver Offers Help

Shriver said his son, also called "Bobby" in the family, "has never been involved in any such situation before and we trust he never will be again. We will help him in every way."

Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., the boys' uncle, flew from Washington to Providence, R.I., where a private car met him for the drive to Hyannis Port after he was told of the summonses.

He said he'd rather not discuss the case "until I find out the details of what happened."

Other Children Of Prominent People 'Caught'

By The Associated Press

Robert F. Kennedy Jr. and R. Sargent Shriver III are among a growing list of sons and daughters of persons prominent in government and politics who have been named in cases involving marijuana or other drugs. Among them are:

John P. Cahill, 19, son of New Jersey Gov. William T. Cahill, was arrested twice on marijuana charges this year and ordered to undergo psychiatric tests prior to disposition of the case.

Michael M. Hollings, 19, son of Sen. Ernest F. Hollings, D-S.C., was arrested last May on the New Jersey Turnpike. He pleaded guilty to marijuana charges and received a six-month suspended sentence.

Howard Samuels Jr., 17, son of a former head of the Small Business Administration, was arrested on drug charges last November in Greenwich Village. The charges were dropped Wednesday on the recommendation of the youth's court-appointed counselor.

Randall Brook Unruh, 18, son of Jess Unruh, California's Democratic nominee for governor, was freed of possession of marijuana charges last June due to insufficient evidence.

Teresa Jane McGovern, then 19, daughter of Sen. George S. McGovern, D-S.D., was arrested on marijuana charges in a Rapid City, S.D., motel in July 1968. The charges were later dropped.

Corpus Christi Appears To Be 'Over The Hump'

CORPUS CHRISTI, Tex. (AP) — Battered Corpus Christi is "over the hump," a city official said, in recovery of essential services knocked out by Hurricane Celia. But small towns nearby still suffered today with scant relief in sight.

Property losses in the Corpus Christi metropolitan area were estimated at $375 million to $500 million.

Curfew Remains

Corpus Christi remained under curfew and armed National Guardsmen patrolled streets from dark to dawn. Looting has been minor, authorities said.

Guardsmen and state police turned back nonresidents at approaches to other communities hit by Monday's storm.

Electric power has been restored to 7,000 customers and to all vital services in Corpus Christi, a utility company spokesman said. Telephone service was available in some areas. Water service was almost completely restored and a city official said supplies are adequate for even major fires.

Electricity Out

Small cities near here, such as Taft, Aransas Pass, Ingleside, Port Aransas and Portland, were still without utilities. All were more heavily damaged than Corpus Christi.

At hospitals minus electricity, a lack of refrigeration put perishable tetanus antitoxins in danger.

Damage to telephone facilities was estimated at $8 million. A utility official said the recovery "will be more of a rebuilding job than a restoration job."

The Coastal Power & Light Co. said it may be several weeks before every home here has electricity again, and even longer in the smaller towns.

Dozens of luxury hotels along the Corpus Christi beach were turned into dormitories for repair crews. Heavy construction equipment jammed nearby streets

Oil Tank Burning

A Sun Oil Co. petroleum storage tank which caught fire during the storm continued to burn early today, lighting the horizon across Corpus Christi Bay. An earthen embankment kept the big fire from spreading.

Many downtown stores in Corpus Christi expected to reopen today, some operating amid bare, unpainted temporary repairs.

Residents in towns without water are receiving typhoid fever shots, and a state medical officer said there were no major health problems.

"PLEASE STAND BY" — This seems to be the message from Corpus Christi, Tex., television station operating this tower, left outstretched in a parking lot after being blown over by Hurricane Celia Monday. A number of automobiles are more or less flattened by the fallen tower. (AP Wirephoto)

OPEN AIR CHURCH — Hurricane Celia took the roof off this Bayside, Tex., church when she roared inland from the Gulf coast Monday. A building in the foreground was also demolished. (AP Wirephoto)

Black Panthers Leader Released On $50,000 Bail

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Released from jail on bond, Black Panthers leader Huey P. Newton says his militant Negro group will pledge members to help the political arm of the Viet Cong in Vietnam.

Within two hours after his release Wednesday in nearby Oakland, the Panthers' cofounder and minister of defense told newsmen:

"We are going to pledge troops from the Black Panther party to the National Liberation Front."

Newton was free for the first time in 33 months on $50,000 bail awaiting retrial in the 1967 slaying of an Oakland policeman.

When he left Alameda County jail Wednesday, a crowd of about 350 greeted him.

C&NW Reports Ore Tonnage Is Near 5 Million

Heading toward a goal of 10 million tons of iron ore from Escanaba this year, the Chicago & North Western Railway today reported it is now near the 5 million mark.

Paul Schilling, North Western assistant dock superintendent, said the total iron ore tonnage moved out of Escanaba as of Wednesday afternoon was 4,882,057.

"We're still set on 10 million," said Schilling.

With the edge growing rapidly, the North Western should reach its goal without difficulty — barring factors such as mechanical troubles, storms, the national economy and the steel industry.

Off to a good half-way mark about mid-season, the North Western now is about 2.8 million tons ahead of last year. But that is not a fair comparison, since the operation of the new ore handling facility had "bugs" that had to be removed before any loading volume was built up last year.

In July the North Western poured 1,157,224 tons of iron ore into carriers for delivery to the smelters at lower Lake ports, indicating the loading capability.

If this rate is maintained through the months of August-November the total loading for the four-mouth period would be 6 million tons. This would put the season total well over the 10 million goal.

Escanaba is now one of the busiest ore ports on the Great Lakes, as well as the only ore loading center on Lake Michigan — with the North Western the vital connecting link for the "short haul" route from mines to smelters.

Cargo Record

A cargo record for the Great Lakes was set at Escanaba when the Chicago & North Western loaded 27,530 gross tons of iron ore into the carrier Arthur B. Homer, flagship of the Bethlehem Steel fleet.

The ore was transported by the Homer to Buffalo, N. Y., clearing from Escanaba on July 19. The previous record was 27,402 tons carried by the Edmund Fitzgerald of Columbia Transportation last year.

PETUNIA GROWING CONTEST winners (from left) are Janice Jewell, Paula Gafner and Susan Rossi, it is announced by the Wickert Floral Co. of Escanaba. Delta County Brownie Scouts grow the petunias as a summer project, about 200 girls participated, and three cash prizes are awarded by the Wickert Floral Co. The contest judge was J. L. Heirman, Delta County extension director. (Daily Press Photo)

Presque Isle Chosen For Generating Plant

MARQUETTE — Upper Peninsula Generating Co., announced that it would build a new steam electric generating unit at Presque Isle in Marquette.

"The generating company has reached this decision after careful examination of all aspects and elaborate engineering and feasibility studies that took into consideration all factors involved," said R. F. Hoyer of Houghton, president of the company.

The possible availability of some Lake Superior & Ishpeming Railroad Co. property adjacent to Upper Peninsula Generating Co. is a primary factor leading to the selection of the exxisting site for expansion, he said.

The company announcement eliminated possible selection of Little Presque Isle, in nearby Marquette Township, as the site. That location has been under consideration, but was vigorously opposed by conservationists.

Hoyer said that expanding at the present site will not be as costly as building on a new site, because certain existing facilities can be utilized in conjunction with the new unit.

Upper Peninsula Generating Co. is jointly owned by Cleveland-Cliffs Iron Co. and the Upper Peninsula Power Co. The firm's new unit will be used by mining companies on the Marquette Range.

The company did not announce construction dates or the size of the new unit.

U.P. To Host State Educators

LANSING — The State Board of Education will meet in Marquette next Tuesday and Wednesday in the first session in the Upper Peninsula since the present Board was established by the Constitution of 1963.

Normal Board business will be handled Tuesday night starting at 7 p.m. in the Heritage Suite, University Center, Northern Michigan University.

A special conference on school disturbances will involve area educators, parents, citizens and school board members starting at 9 a.m. Wednesday at the Marquette Holiday Inn. An afternoon session at the Holiday Inn will be held to enable the State Board to meet with and hear views of administrators and board members from smaller districts.

All of the Board meetings are open to the public.

The school disturbance conference and the problems clinic for smaller school districts are the second in a series of such meetings being held throughout the state. An earlier meeting was held in Cadillac on July 21-22. Similar meetings are planned for Pontiac Sept. 22-23 and Kalamazoo October 13-14.

Lake Trout Catch Made By Anglers Off St. Martin's

The first catch of lake trout in the Escanaba area of Lake Michigan by sport fishermen in many years has been made off St. Martin's Island, the Department of Natural Resources reports.

Preliminary test netting and checks with a fish finder by the crew of the DNR's "Steelhead" revealed good numbers of lake trout and some salmon along the bank on the west side of St. Martin's Island.

Two boats left Gladstone last Thursday morning and in two hours of fishing anglers landed four lake trout ranging in weight from 2½ to 5½ pounds.

The charter boats were operated by Dick Weycker and Elmer White, both of Gladstone, and the fishing party included Donald Dabney, and George Lockard of Gladstone, Larry Philip of Texas and Wayne Eggers of Wayne under direction of Dave Johnson of Escanaba, district fish biologist for the Department of Natural Resources.

Success depended on fishing the deep side of the bank as one boat strayed too far west in the fog and caught no fish. The bank lies within one quarter mile of the west side of the island and runs in a north-south direction the full length of the island.

Lures used were a Herring Dodger with North Star Fly and a Finn Spoon which are similar to the lures used on Lake Superior.

The distance to these fishing grounds is approximately 20 miles and it is "big water," officers said. Consequently, a boat of ample size and power is required.

The daily and possession limit is five singly or in combination with other trout and/or salmon, and the minimum size limit is 10 inches.

Lamprey control measures and an intensified planting program hopefully will rehabilitate the lake trout fishery in these waters.

Since 1958, nearly 8,000,000 yearling lake trout have been planted in Lake Michigan waters. Most recent local plants included 100,000 off Ford River and 100,000 off Manistique in 1969 and 100,000 off the Escanaba Municipal Dock in 1970.

Property, Income Tax Resolutions Beaten In U.P.

IRONWOOD (AP) — A property tax and an income tax were among the casualties in Upper Peninsula voting Tuesday.

A proposal to implement a one per cent city income tax in Ironwood was defeated 2,084 to 476.

And a referendum to establish a one-mill property tax for a program of vocational and technical education in Gogebic and Ontonagon counties lost 3,780 to 3,470. Bessemer voters approved plans to revise the city charter 582 to 590.

NMU To Receive 'School' Grant

MARQUETTE — Trustees of the Charles S. Mott Foundation have approved a grant of $99,915 to Northern Michigan University to continue and expand the university's Center for Community Education Development.

Dr. Wilbert Berg, dean of NMU's School of Education, said that "continuation of funds from the Mott Foundation assists the university in fulfilling one of its three major purposes — service our geographical region."

NMU became involved with the community school program in 1964, when it joined with the Mott Foundation in offering assistance with developing the program to all schools in the 15 counties of the Upper Peninsula.

Provided Funds

The Foundation provided funds for staffing the Public Services Division at the university with a Community Education Center to promote and develop the idea that "a school district could provide a comprehensive program and meet the educational, cultural and recreational needs of all its people."

The first community school program in the U.P. was organized in the Iron Mountain-Kingsford School District in 1964. By the fall of 1969, 22 U.P. communities were conducting the program with indications that an additional five school districts will organize the program for 1970-71.

Ben Martin, community school consultant at NMU, said "the success of the community school program is evident from the extent of participation which is taking place.

"During the current year, adults enrolled for 2,549 high school credits in the diploma completion program. In addition, over 8,000 enrolled in non-credit programs and a weekly average of 8,000 people, adults and school children, participated in enrichment programs."

In all, nearly 49,000 people participated in the community school program in the U.P. In many communities, the community school enrollment equals or exceeds regular school attendance figures.

Need Exists

The Iron Mountain-Kingsford program is the best attended with over 19,300 taking part in it last year.

Martin added that "the rapid development of the community school in the U.P. is evidence that a critical need exists for the program."

Cost of the program is covered by grants from the Mott Foundation, fees, local taxes, state aid and private funds.

The over-all combined budgets of the 22 communities for 1969-70 was over $750,000, of which $49,000 was contributed by the Foundation in the form of grants distributed by NMU.

Administering the program in the various centers throughout the U.P. are a total of 20 full-time and 50 part-time directors. In addition, some 400 teachers were hired last year to instruct in credit as well as non-credit courses and to supervise recreational programs.

School districts presently using the community school program include Escanaba, Gladstone-Rapid River, Gwinn, Houghton - Hancock - Painesdale, Iron Mountain-Kingsford, Ironwood, Ishpeming-Negaunee and L'Anse-Baraga. Others are Marquette, Manistique, Crystal Falls, Menominee, Ontonagon, West Iron County and Sault Ste. Marie.

Briefly Told

Holy Name Booster Club members, athletes and cheerleaders are asked to report at the athletic field on Saturday, Aug. 8 at 9 a.m. for a work bee.

A camp located in Spalding Township, owned by Roy Stone of Jackson, was broken into sometime this past week. Joanne Mathias, Rte. 1 Powers, reported the incident to the state police. Officers said that entry was apparently gained by breaking a basement window.

Milton Michau, 66, Rte. 1 Cornell, ran into a deer with his automobile Wednesday morning on County Rd. 416, six-tenths of a mile north of County Rd. E-18. Michau was not injured.

Menominee County Library's bookmobile will make the following tours next week: Monday, Roubal's, Evergreen Road, Willow Road, Mark's Cabins; Wednesday, East Carney, Wilson; Thursday, West Daggett, Chalk Hills, Banat, Gardiner, Faithorn; Friday, Perronville, M-569.

Traffic volume figures for July were reported Wednesday by North Central Airlines at 2,879, air mail 3,558 pounds, surface mail 830 pounds, air express 5,043 pounds and air freight 24,462 pounds.

Lloyd Peltier

Former Newsboys Achieve Success

Two former Escanaba Daily Press carrier boys are making names for themselves in the business world.

Lloyd Peltier, 32, of Singapore, is listed in Singapore Trade & Industry as the top man in the building industry in the Republic of Singapore; and his brother, William Peltier, 35, has been promoted to the presidency of Feldman and Norton, Chicago.

They are sons of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Peltier, formerly of Escanaba, now residing on the West Coast.

William Peltier was executive vice presdent of the Chicago firm whose billings, including capitalized fees, exceed $6 million a year.

Lloyd Peltier Sr. was employed in Escanaba by Merritt Chapman & Scott in the 1940's with the wartime construction of an auxiliary ore dock, and moved to Oregon with the company later.

His son, Lloyd, joined Merritt Chapman & Scott in 1960 and then became projects accountant for Vinnel Corp. in Los Angeles. He then returned to the construction firm as administrative manager and handled all the accounting and purchasing correspondence.

In 1964 he signed up with Pacific Architects Inc., which held a $200 million contract in Vietnam, and his business trips took him to Singapore and Honkgong where he developed contacts that led to his acceptance of the postion he holds today in Singapore—vice president and executive director of American International Industries.

Three Boys Hurt When Motorcycles Crash Wednesday

An accident involving two motorcycles on County Road 426, two-tenths of a mile north of U. S. 2, caused injuries to three 17-year-old boys Wednesday afternoon, according to a report from State Police.

Richard Konrand, Rte. 1, Rapid River, and Paul Bader, 120 S. 5th St., Wells, were the drivers of the two motorcycles and Kevin Hendrickson, 1811 22nd Ave. S., was a passenger on the Konrand bike.

Officers said that Bader was making a left turn when Konrand attempted to pass him. The two motorcycles then collided.

All three boys were taken to St. Francis Hospital. Konrand was treated and released and Hendrickson is listed in fair condition. Bader was treated at St. Francis Hospital and then transferred to St. Luke's Hospital in Marquette, where he is listed in fair to good condition.

Kresge Hall To Be Dedicated Sunday

Ceremonies will be held on Summer Island in Lake Michigan on Saturday, Aug. 8, to formally dedicate Summer Science Camp's new Kresge Hall and also the old Indian Point Mission bell.

Kresge Hall is the newest addition to the four year old Sciesce Camp on Summer Island.

It was constructed with a $60,000 grant from the Kresge Foundation of Detroit, and is used as a dining hall-lodge-multipurpose building. The hall has over 4,000 square feet of floor area and includes the camp office and infirmary. Construction of the building started in the fall of 1969 and was finished in June of this year.

The main contractor was Leon Genre of Atlanta, Mich., and others were: Clyde Brooks of Atlanta, masonry; Hector Peterson and Donald Killoran of Fairport, site preparation; Donald Lehern of Fayette, electrical; and Virgil Winter of Garden, heating.

The bell was transferred to Summer Island from the abandoned Indian Point Mission south of Nahma through arrangements made with the Marquette Diocese by the late Fred Gasparick. The bell was originally blessed by Bishop John Vertin in 1887.

Dr. Donald Yerg, dean of graduate studies at Michigan Technological University will be the featured speaker at the dedication.

Guests will include Wesley Baker of the Kresge Foundation, several Summer Science Inc. trustees and others who have been involved with the building of Summer Science Camp.

T. D. Vinette of Escanaba will transport guests from the Fairport fishing docks to Summer Island for the ceremonies.

Crime Bill

"Excessive bail shall not be required," states the Eighth Amendment to the Bill of Rights.

"The right of the people to be secure in their persons, houses, papers and effects, against unreasonable searches and seizures, shall not be violated, and no warrents shall issue but upon probable cause, supported by oath or affirmation, and particularly describing the place to be searched and the persons or things to be seized," states the Fourth Amendment.

Yet the U. S. Senate approved (54-33) a bill that denies bail entirely under certain circumstances and allows police to enter homes without knocking. Also provided in the bill is broadening of the wire-tapping practices of the government.

The measure is the District of Columbia crime bill, which is aimed at trying to reduce the excessively high crime rate in the nation's capital. The end is salutary, but the means are questionable, to say the least.

The bill provides the jailing of an accused person for up to 60 days before his trial if the judge thinks the defendant's record indicates he might be a crime risk in the interim. In other words, it denies bail completely in some cases. It also provides for "no-knock" entry, permitting law officers to enter a home without identifying themselves if they think the suspect might otherwise destroy evidence or endanger the officers' lives.

* * *

The vote on the bill cut across party lines and the measure found supporters and opponents together at both ends of the political spectrum. Numbered among the supporters, for instance, were several liberal Northern senators, while the principal opponent of the bill was a conservative Southerner.

The Southerner was Sen. Sam J. Ervin Jr., a South Carolina Democrat who is regarded as the strictest constructionist in the Senate. His description of the D. C. crime bill is something to be savored:

"This . . . is as full of unconstitutional, unjust and unwise provisions as a mangy hound dog is full of fleas . . . a garbage pail of some of the most repressive, nearsighted, intolerant, unfair and vindictive legislation that the Senate has ever been presented . . . an affront to constitutional principles and to the intelligence of the people of the United States."

One does not have to search far to learn why the measure passed. Some of those who voted for the bill could find sanctuary in its provisions for reforming the crowded court system in Washington and for establishing a public defender program. Others undoubtedly were sincerely concerned with the appalling tide of crime in the District. And some must have feared that a negative vote would not have been politically expedient in this election year.

* * *

These are all understandable motives, and no one doubts that the heavy incidence of crime in Washington must be checked, but must this be done at the expense of individual freedoms that are guaranteed to Americans in their Constitution?

If the D. C. crime bill were to become a model for the nation as a whole, the United States would have forsaken some of its most precious liberties. Fortunately, the bill will be tested in court, where Sen Ervin's accusation of unconstitutionality should be proven.

The Family Lawyer

Love Thy Neighbor

In half a dozen places, the Bible tells us to "love thy neighbor." But it may be difficult to apply this general rule to the specific people who live next door. To what extent does the law insist on a "good neighbor policy?"

Under traditional legal rules, a home owner owed very little regard for his neighbor's sensibilities. He could do almost anything he pleased, so long as he did not actually intrude upon his neighbor's property.

In one early case, a home owner dug such a deep excavation near the boundary line that his neighbor's house had to be abandoned as unsafe. Yet, even though he had acted with malice aforethought, a court held him not liable for ruining the neighbor's house.

And in another case, a court refused to condemn an enormous "spite fence," carefully designed to shut out light and air from the people next door. The judge said "it would be intolerable to allow a man's neighbors to question his motives."

But in recent years, as people began living closer together, the attitude of the law has changed. Today the right to excavate is limited by considerations of safety and fair play. Almost everywhere, the spite fence is forbidden. As one court put it:

"No one ought to have the legal right to make a malicious use of his property for no benefit to himself, but merely to injure his fellow man."

Of course, moderate annoyances — even if unneighborly — are still legal. A home owner may still be reasonably noisy, even if the neighbors like it quiet. He may still paint his house a color that the neighbors consider frightful.

In one case, a man turned a deaf ear to a neighbor's complaint about his four large maple trees. It seems the trees kept the neighbor's house in constant shade.

But after a court hearing, the judge ruled that the neighbor had no legal grounds for complaint. This was the kind of "wrong," said the judge, for which the law provides no remedy.

U.S. Problem: Getting People To Right Places

By JOHN CHAMBERLAIN

Government, in America, is better at defining problems than it is at solving them.

It is easy to lament this. Thus the recent report of the National Goals Research Staff, published under the title of "Toward Balanced Growth: Quantity With Quality," has been criticized in many quarters for its failure to provide specific ways and means for dealing with such things as population growth, pollution of the environment, education, and so on.

Maybe it is enough that the National Goals researchers, who have been working in the White House for a year under the direction of Leonard Garment, have limited themselves to analyzing the debates; if they had allowed themselves to dissipate their energies in the construction of programs they would have been guilty of distorting the genius of America, which is to find voluntary and largely non-governmental ways of dealing with problems as they arise.

There is the population problem, for example. The chapter on "Population Growth and Distribution" in the National Goals document has an admirable objectivity. It makes the point that the U.S. could easily feed, clothe and house many more people if necessary.

As Dr. Ansley Coale, president of the Population Association of America, has said, "Even if our population should rise to a billion, its average density would not be very high by European standards."

The trouble with our present population density is that it is bunched in the wrong places. The National Goals researchers spell this out: in the next decade, they say, "twelve metropolitan areas occupying one one-tenth of the land area will contain over 70 per cent of the population. Moreover, at least 50 per cent ... will be found in three great metropolitan belts: Boston-Washington, Chicago - Pittsburgh, San Francisco-San Diego... At the same time, towns under 10,000 population, rural villages, and farms are expected to have the lowest growth rate."

* * *

A dictatorship could do something about this in a programmatic way simply by imposing controls on internal migration. A democracy, however, can only redirect trends by subtle policy decisions. It cannot coerce people into having fewer children, but it can change the laws as they affect birth control. It can't tell people to stay out of big cities, though it could redirect industry into rural areas by tax policy.

Fortunately, voluntary associations of individuals frequently get the pitch without waiting for government policy to change.

The Campbell Soup Co., to pick one example, happens to have a president, W. B. Murphy, who long ago found out that architect Frank Lloyd Wright's slogan, "decenter and reintegrate," made plain sense for a food processing corporation. The original Campbell plants were all in big city neighborhoods — Camden, N. J., Chicago, Ill., and Sacramento, Calif. The recent Campbell development has been in such places as Paris, Tex., Napoleon, O., and Sumter, S.C. Campbell has added 14,000 employes in smaller towns to its payroll in the last 15 years, which means that some 55,000 family members (plus at least the same number associated with service industries) have stayed at home in their original communities rather than join the trek into the big cities.

* * *

It is easier to solve ecological problems when the population is spread out. Thus, when Campbell discovered that its trickling filter waste disposal system in Napoleon, O., had an odor problem during times of temperature inversion, it had the space to develop plastic domes to trap the odors.

In South Carolina it passed its industrial effluents from the Sumter canning factory through deep-rooted grasses; the decontaminated "waste" wound up by becoming sustaining food for rock bass in a pond that also supports egrets, ducks, and geese. The industrial waste disposal system at the Campbell plant in Paris, Tex., has twice won recognition from the Sport Foundation, Inc., for its role in water conservation.

The National Goals report speaks of a "mixed strategy of response to our environmental problems." Yet we won't know enough to achieve a good "mix" until someone comes up with a thorough inventory of what the corporations are doing to deal with population and environmental trends.

The ecological wisdom of the U.S. is dispersed among thousands of associations and individuals; what we need now is an encyclopedist to put it all together in a supplement to the White House's document on "Toward Balanced Growth."

Levin Predicting 'Major Offensive' Against Milliken

DETROIT (AP) — State Sen. Sander Levin, picked overwhelmingly by Democrats to oppose Republican Gov. William Milliken in the November general election, predicts "it will be the most intensive, most energetic battle for governor this state has seen for about 10 years."

At the same time, the Democratic nominee from Berkley said he proposed to conduct his campaign in "above - board, clean fashion."

Beats Three Rivals

Levin said he saw his nomination by a majority over three other contestants as "a mandate for me to join with others in carrying out a hard-hitting, issues-oriented campaign."

At the same time Levin said, however, he accepted Milliken's challenge "to join with me and work together for the remainder of the (1970) legislative session on programs that should be enacted into law."

Levin said he also agreed that partisanship should be set aside on the legislative floor "providing he doesn't mean do nothing."

Rules Out Personalities

Levin's statements came in a post-election news conference in Detroit, Milliken's at one in Lansing, where he said: "I hope to discuss the issues and conduct my campaign in the public interest and not on personalities."

Levin said he was "most encouraged" by election returns which "show I have broad-based support."

Told that Zolton Ferency, a runnerup to him on the Democratic ticket, had said he didn't know whether Ferency and his supporters would back him in the general election, Levin said:

"I know the people who supported Zolton and they are issue-oriented, as are those who supported me. I confidently look forward to their support."

Raps Governor

Levin said he considered Milliken's leadership "as weak and vacillating" and expressed the opinion he would "be a stronger leader" as governor.

Levin said Milliken "doesn't know how to get things done" and that he "didn't lift a finger for week-" to get a Senate vote on a bill which would permit Detroit to levy an excise tax of 1 to 5 per cent on utility bills.

Levin said, "The Legislature and the governor have an obligation to get the most pressing bills off the (legislative) calendar, and that means soon."

Among them, Levin said are measures permitting cities to help themselves financially.

Levin also listed measures proposing a constitutional amendment to repeal the ban on a graduated income tax, establish a state commission to investigate organized crime, restore discretionary powers of judges in sentencing drug law violators, tighten pollution controls, reorganize intermediate school districts and improve housing and consumer protection.

Interest Goes Up On Savings Bonds

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate has voted the Treasury Department authority to raise the interest on U.S. savings bonds to 5½ per cent.

The proposal, still subject to House approval, would raise the rate from 5 per cent, effective last June 1. Such action by the Treasury would be subject to approval of the president.

Sen. John Williams, R-Del., tacked the provision onto an unrelated House-passed bill. He said the boost would help the average American who cannot get higher yields available to wealthy investors in the bond and real estate markets.

Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., suggested raising the savings bond rate to a level equal to or higher than that paid by savings and loan associations might further reduce the availability of money for new housing.

The provision passed on a voice vote.

Opening lead—four of hearts.

I played in a team of four match in Johannesburg two years ago and at our table my partner (Mrs. Dorothy Hayden) and I, against silent opponents, arrived at an ambitious contract of seven spades on the accompanying hand. With the spades and clubs both divided favorably, we had no trouble making the grand slam for a score of 2,210 points.

At the other table there was a completely different bidding sequence, as shown in the diagram. Our East-West teammates (Peter Leventritt and Peter Pender) were unusually active and succeeded in jockeying their South African opponents into a poor grand slam contract of seven clubs.

South's initial shot of one club was, in theory, an artificial bid based on one of six different types of hands he might have had.

Pender's two notrump overcall was likewise artificial and showed support for the two red suits. Pender would ordinarily have had more high - card strength for this overcall, but he was trying to jam the works against his vulnerable opponents.

North doubled and Leventritt cooperated beautifully with Pender's strategy by leaping to five hearts. The effect of the nuisance bids that East-West had interjected was that South's six club call at this point was the first natural bid his side had made.

North realized that his partner had to have a powerful club suit to bid six clubs all by himself, and, for better or worse he raised partner to seven.

Had declarer seen all four hands he would have brought home the grand slam, but he played his cards quite normally and ended going down two. Expecting to find West short in both black suits, he lost a club finesse to the queen and later lost a spade finesse also.

As a result, the U.S. team gained 2,410 points on this one deal.

Small Town Not First Anymore In Noting Votes

POINTE AUX BARQUES (AP)—This tiny resort community at the top of the Michigan Thumb didn't report its election results first Tuesday, as it traditionally had in past Michigan primaries and elections.

The reason: vote-conscious legislators in Lansing thought Pointe Aux Barques' 14 votes, usually solidly Republican, might provide a tip-off on how the state as a whole is going in an election and influence the balloting elsewhere.

So the Legislature passed a law making it a felony yet for anyone to disclose a precinct's voting until the legal time for closing the polls at 8 p.m., even if they finished counting some 12 hours earlier, as Pointe Aux Barques usually does.

Pointe Aux Barques, and other precincts, thus got a warning from the State Election Bureau to withhold its report until 8 p.m. closing time.

Parents Barking Up Wrong Tree: Scribe

Dear Ann Landers: I've read about the problem time and time again in your column and always agreed with your answer—until now. When the problem is your own it looks a little different.

Mothers have written to ask why is it that when their sons marry they lose them to the wife's side? Our two sons were married within the past three years. One has been completely weaned away from us and the other boy is headed in that direction.

My husband and I are heartsick. We are not domineering or overbearing parents. We always felt we had a good relationship with our boys but it appears it wasn't as good as we thought.

I've heard the old adage, "A son is a son until he takes a wife, but a daughter is a daughter all of her life." I didn't believe it, but I do now. Do the girls brainwash their husbands? Whose fault is it? Why does it always happen, and at a time in a mother's life when she is all set to enjoy the fruits of her labors? Please answer in print, Ann. This heartbreaking problem is being shared by millions.—No Day Is Mother's Day For Me

Dear No Day: It doesn't always happen. Sometimes a daughter who marries enjoys being with her in-laws more than with her own parents. The decision hinges on two points: first, the quality of the girl's relationship with her mother, because it is the wife who usually arranges the social calendar; second, the mother-in-law's ability to let go of her son after he marries and her ability to keep her nose out of his business. An aggressive take-over type mom is bad news to a new wife and she cannot help but be resentful. Her natural inclination is to protect her marriage by putting as much distance as possible between her husband and his mother.

Mothers who accuse their daughters-in-law of alienating their sons are invariably barking up the wrong tree. Unless the climate is right the daughter-in-law could not pull it off. The son who spends a great deal more time with his wife's parents than with his own, wants it that way.

* * *

Dear Ann Landers: Your reply to "Wilted By Perfectionist Mom" was excellent. I, too, had a "Perfectionist Mom." She insisted that I wash the dishes from left to right, set out all the ingredients before I started to bake. I had to tuck the bedsheets under a certain way so there wasn't a wrinkle to be found. If I deviated from Mom's method she considered it a threat to her authority. So I did it HER way, and I did it right. Of course she drove me nuts, but I was determined not to let her wear me down. I vowed to do everything so well she couldn't find fault with it.

By the time I went away to school my mother was very proud of me. And I was proud of myself. I did some things even better than she!

Tell the girls with persnickety moms to hang in there, Ann. Those skills a girl learns at her mother's knee stay with her forever.—Tucson

Dear Tucson: In order to learn at a mother's knee a daughter need not be under her mother's thumb. A wise mom knows how to teach without giving orders.

Crime Bill

"Excessive bail shall not be required," states the Eighth Amendment to the Bill of Rights.

"The right of the people to be secure in their persons, houses, papers and effects, against unreasonable searches and seizures, shall not be violated, and no warrents shall issue but upon probable cause, supported by oath or affirmation, and particularly describing the place to be searched and the persons or things to be seized," states the Fourth Amendment.

Yet the U. S. Senate approved (54-33) a bill that denies bail entirely under certain circumstances and allows police to enter homes without knocking. Also provided in the bill is broadening of the wire-tapping practices of the government.

The measure is the District of Columbia crime bill, which is aimed at trying to reduce the excessively high crime rate in the nation's capital. The end is salutary, but the means are questionable, to say the least.

The bill provides the jailing of an accused person for up to 60 days before his trial if the judge thinks the defendant's record indicates he might be a crime risk in the interim. In other words, it denies bail completely in some cases. It also provides for "no-knock" entry, permitting law officers to enter a home without identifying themselves if they think the suspect might otherwise destroy evidence or endanger the officers' lives.

★ ★ ★

The vote on the bill cut across party lines and the measure found supporters and opponents together at both ends of the political spectrum. Numbered among the supporters, for instance, were several liberal Northern senators, while the principal opponent of the bill was a conservative Southerner.

The Southerner was Sen. Sam J. Ervin Jr., a South Carolina Democrat who is regarded as the strictest constructionist in the Senate. His description of the D. C. crime bill is something to be savored:

"This . . . is as full of unconstitutional, unjust and unwise provisions as a mangy hound dog is full of fleas . . . a garbage pail of some of the most repressive, nearsighted, intolerant, unfair and vindictive legislation that the Senate has ever been presented . . . an affront to constitutional principles and to the intelligence of the people of the United States."

One does not have to search far to learn why the measure passed. Some of those who voted for the bill could find sanctuary in its provisions for reforming the crowded court system in Washington and for establishing a public defender program. Others undoubtedly were sincerely concerned with the appalling tide of crime in the District. And some must have feared that a negative vote would not have been politically expedient in this election year.

★ ★ ★

These are all understandable motives, and no one doubts that the heavy incidence of crime in Washington must be checked, but must this be done at the expense of individual freedoms that are guaranteed to Americans in their Constitution?

If the D. C. crime bill were to become a model for the nation as a whole, the United States would have forsaken some of its most precious liberties. Fortunately, the bill will be tested in court, where Sen Ervin's accusation of unconstitutionality should be proven.

The Family Lawyer

Love Thy Neighbor

In half a dozen places, the Bible tells us to "love thy neighbor." But it may be difficult to apply this general rule to the specific people who live next door. To what extent does the law insist on a "good neighbor policy?"

Under traditional legal rules, a home owner owed very little regard for his neighbor's sensibilities. He could do almost anything he pleased, so long as he did not actually intrude upon his neighbor's property.

In one early case, a home owner dug such a deep excavation near the boundary line that his neighbor's house had to be abandoned as unsafe. Yet, even though he had acted with malice aforethought, a court held him not liable for ruining the neighbor's house.

And in another case, a court refused to condemn an enormous "spite fence," carefully designed to shut out light and air from the people next door. The judge said "it would be intolerable to allow a man's neighbors to question his motives."

But in recent years, as people began living closer together, the attitude of the law has changed. Today the right to excavate is limited by considerations of safety and fair play. Almost everywhere, the spite fence is forbidden. As one court put it:

"No one ought to have the legal right to make a malicious use of his property for no benefit to himself, but merely to injure his fellow man."

Of course, moderate annoyances — even if unneighborly — are still legal. A home owner may still be reasonably noisy, even if the neighbors like it quiet. He may still paint his house a color that the neighbors consider frightful.

In one case, a man turned a deaf ear to a neighbor's complaint about his four large maple trees. It seems the trees kept the neighbor's house in constant shade.

But after a court hearing, the judge ruled that the neighbor had no legal grounds for complaint. This was the kind of "wrong," said the judge, for which the law provides no remedy.

At the other table there was a completely different bidding sequence, as shown in the diagram. Our East-West teammates (Peter Leventritt and Peter Pender) were unusually active and succeeded in jockeying their South African opponents into a poor grand slam contract of seven clubs.

South's initial shot of one club was, in theory, an artificial bid based on one of six different types of hands he might have had.

Pender's two notrump overcall was likewise artificial and showed support for the two red suits. Pender would ordinarily have had more high - card strength for this overcall, but he was trying to jam the works against his vulnerable opponents.

North doubled and Leventritt cooperated beautifully with Pender's strategy by leaping to five hearts. The effect of the nuisance bids that East-West had interjected was that South's six club call at this point was the first natural bid his side had made.

North realized that his partner had to have a powerful club suit to bid six clubs all by himself, and, for better or worse he raised partner to seven.

Had declarer seen all four hands he would have brought home the grand slam, but he played his cards quite normally and ended going down two. Expecting to find West short in both black suits, he lost a club finesse to the queen and later lost a spade finesse also.

As a result, the U.S. team gained 2,410 points on this one deal.

Small Town Not First Anymore In Noting Votes

POINTE AUX BARQUES (AP)—This tiny resort community at the top of the Michigan Thumb didn't report its election results first Tuesday, as it traditionally had in past Michigan primaries and elections.

The reason: vote-conscious legislators in Lansing thought Pointe Aux Barques' 14 votes, usually solidly Republican, might provide a tip-off on how the state as a whole is going in an election and influence the balloting elswhere.

So the Legislature passed a law making it a felony yet for anyone to disclose a precinct's voting until the legal time for closing the polls at 8 p.m., even if they finished counting some 12 hours earlier, as Pointe Aux Barques usually does.

Pointe Aux Barques, and other precincts, thus got a warning from the State Election Bureau to withhold its report until 8 p.m. closing time.

Ann Landers

Parents Barking Up Wrong Tree: Scribe

Dear Ann Landers: I've read about the problem time and time again in your column and always agreed with your answer—until now. When the problem is your own it looks a little different.

Mothers have written to ask why is it that when their sons marry they lose them to the wife's side? Our two sons were married within the past three years. One has been completely weaned away from us and the other boy is headed in that direction.

My husband and I are heartsick. We are not domineering or overbearing parents. We always felt we had a good relationship with our boys but it appears it wasn't as good as we thought.

I've heard the old adage, "A son is a son until he takes a wife, but a daughter is a daughter all of her life." I didn't believe it, but I do now. Do the girls brainwash their husbands? Whose fault is it? Why does it always happen, and at a time in a mother's life when she is all set to enjoy the fruits of her labors? Please answer in print, Ann. This heartbreaking problem is being shared by millions.—No Day Is Mother's Day For Me

Dear No Day: It doesn't always happen. Sometimes a daughter who marries enjoys being with her in-laws more than with her own parents. The decision hinges on two points: first, the quality of the girl's relationship with her mother, because it is the wife who usually arranges the social calendar; second, the mother-in-law's ability to let go of her son after he marries and her ability to keep her nose out of his business. An aggressive take-over type mom is bad news to a new wife and she cannot help but be resentful. Her natural inclination is to protect her marriage by putting as much distance as possible between her husband and his mother.

Mothers who accuse their daughters-in-law of alienating their sons are invariably barking up the wrong tree. Unless the climate is right the daughter-in-law could not pull it off. The son who spends a great deal more time with his wife's parents than with his own, wants it that way.

★ ★ ★

Dear Ann Landers: Your reply to "Wilted By Perfectionist Mom" was excellent. I, too, had a "Perfectionist Mom." She insisted that I wash the dishes from left to right, set out all the ingredients before I started to bake. I had to tuck the bedsheets under a certain way so there wasn't a wrinkle to be found. If I deviated from Mom's method she considered it a threat to her authority. So I did it HER way, and I did it right. Of course she drove me nuts, but I was determined not to let her wear me down. I vowed to do everything so well she couldn't find fault with it.

By the time I went away to school my mother was very proud of me. And I was proud of myself. I did some things even better than she!

Tell the girls with persnickety moms to hang in there, Ann. Those skills a girl learns at her mother's knee stay with her forever.—Tucson

Dear Tucson: In order to learn at a mother's knee a daughter need not be under her mother's thumb. A wise mom knows how to teach without giving orders.

Teacher Strikes Foreseen As Union Activity Increases

By WILLIAM J. WAUGH

WASHINGTON (AP) — Teacher labor leaders predict that union activity will gain momentum this fall in urban, suburban and rural schools of all 50 states, bringing with it the increased chance of teacher strikes.

Their forecasts come after a decade which saw dramatic escalation in the number of teacher walkouts. In the past three years there have been 425 teacher strikes—nearly six times as many as there were in the previous seven years.

Spreads To Colleges

The labor movement, which was confined mostly to elementary and secondary schools in the 1960s, now has begun to spread to the two-year and four-year colleges.

Both the National Education Association, with 1. 1 million members, and the AFL-CIO American Federation of Teachers, with 200,000 members, are actively organizing higher education personnel.

"The most dramatic change in the next few years will be in the field of higher education," said Robert H. Chanin, NEA general counsel. "There will be a revolt of staff relations to administration in every university."

157 Chapters Chartered

In three years the NEA affiliate, National Higher Education Association, has chartered 157 chapters with 7,770 members at two-year colleges and 132 locals with 23,000 members at four-year schools.

Negotiations now under way in New Jersey with 14 state colleges are at an impasse that could lead to a strike showdown, Chanin said in an interview.

AFT spokesman John Converse said his organization has enlisted 15,000 higher education members spread over 200 locals. He said at the "present time the only place we are having difficulty is at Seattle Community College."

Strikes Legalized

Adding thrust to the educators' labor movement are new laws in Hawaii and Pennsylvania legalizing teacher strikes. Similar legislation is sought by both teacher groups at state and national levels.

What happens in Pennsylvania will be watched closely by the NEA and AFT.

"Pennsylvania could be smooth if the school boards play the game," said Chanin. "We don't expect them to love it but we hope they will accept it and bargain in good faith."

Pennsylvania had 15 teacher strikes last year and Chanin said there undoubtedly will be more.

Strikes Possible

Converse and James E. Mundy, AFT director of organization, said among their locals they could end up with strikes in Illinois, New Haven and West Haven in Connecticut, Philadelphia and Springfield, Mass.

Converse added that there is a "grave possibility of trouble in Washington, D.C., and a distinct possibility of it in San Francisco."

Since AFT has negotiated multi-year contracts there is little likelihood of labor trouble in New York, Chicago, Detroit, Kansas City or Pittsburgh schools, he said.

Both unions look for considerable activity in the northeast. In the Midwest, Michigan has had a lot of strikes and Chanin said "we'll have fun and games in Michigan" again. Munday agreed.

Lot Of Grumbling

"There's a lot of grumbling in California," Chanin said, mainly over a state law which prohibits union teacher contracts.

Although last year's 180 strikes is small in relation to the number of school districts in the country—more than 21,000—the increased activity nonetheless reflects a changing attitude of the teaching profession in general toward unionism.

For years the NEA refused to identify a strike as a strike. Instead, it referred to walkouts as professional holidays, a recess or a withdrawal of services. This is no longer true, and this year the NEA voted 20 per cent of its $25.5 million budget for field staff representatives who, NEA officials say, will be skilled in organizational bargaining for teachers.

Speeches OK Now

Chanin summed up the new attitude this way:

"Speeches I make now would have got me fired 10 years ago."

Chanin said there are many reasons for the changing view: a growing desire to have the right to bargain, a desire to have something to say about their future and a right to be involved in school planning.

Teachers, looking at their own economic plight, also see other unions "outstripping them" in financial gains, he added.

Another element, he said, is the increasing number of male teachers.

Family Income

Just after World War II almost 95 per cent of the elementary and secondary teachers were women, Chanin said, and of this group 75 per cent were teaching to earn secondary income. Today, he continued, nearly 40 per cent of the teachers are male and their income is basic to the family.

Still another factor, Chanin said, is that teachers now see "social protest as acceptable" to all walks of life—professional as well as nonprofessional.

Asked to list the main causes of teacher walkouts, AFT's Munday said, in the order of importance:

Teaching conditions—size of class, lack of supplies, lack of rapport with administration, lack of proper grievance procedure.

Inability of teachers to be heard—a positive voice in curriculum, selection of books and shaping school policy.

Rock Followers Are Ready For Weekend Show

GOOSE LAKE, Mich. (AP)— Rock festival followers continue to pour into Goose Lake in south central Michigan area Wednesday for a weekend of rock music.

Jackson County courts have dismissed suits seeking to prevent the festival from opening. Circuit Court Judge John Dalton Tuesday turned down a request by county Prosecutor Bruce Barton for an injunction. Barton argued that police surveillance of the area would be inadequate.

Several hundred young festival fans from as far away as Texas, California and New York arrived in the area as early as Tuesday — some hitch-hiking, others in their own cars. Since the site of the festival was closed to them by a 10-foot high fence topped with a "hot" electric wire, the youths camped in lean-tos and quickly built grass and log huts on surrounding private fields, witnesses reported.

Richard Songer of the Detroit suburb of Southfield, who owns the 390-acre park and is promoting the festival, has decided to open the festival gates Thursday, a day earlier than planned, because of the swell of early arrivals.

Barton estimates that 21,000 tickets to the festival have been sold already at $15 each and that up to 150,000 youths will jam in for three days of rock.

Col. Fredrick Davids, State Police director, said he'll beef up patrols at the park and indicated traffic congestion may be the major problem.

Wreckers and ambulances will be standing by, said Jackson County Sheriff Charles Southworth.

A private security guard of 400 to 500 men will be stationed inside the park during the festival, officials said.

Meanwhile, some of the youths who reached the scene early are earning a little pocket money by helping workmen rush the stage, sound system and grounds to completion before the entertainers arrive Friday.

LENORE ROMNEY, wife of U. S. Housing Secretary George Romney, won out Tuesday over her opponent Robert Huber in her bid for the U. S. Senate Republican nomination. She will oppose U. S. Senator Philip Hart in November. (AP Wirephoto)

College Coed Bridges The Generation Gap

SANTA CRUZ, Calif. (AP) — Patty Nelson is the prime mover of the "Spring and Autumn Alliance," a program that has put 50 college students into personal contact with elderly persons.

"It's like going into a library full of amazing, living books," the pert blonde coed says of the students' visits to retirement and rest homes. "It brings wisdom for us, and enthusiasm for them."

When the 19-year-old junior came to the University of California's Santa Cruz campus, from Banning, Calif., two years ago, she was haunted by the faces of lonely old people in markets and on the streets.

She asked the college provost, Dr. Page Smith, if she could study the problems of old age. Dr. Smith sponsored her, and she spent weeks reading up on gerontology.

Patty, a literature major, tackled a local retirement hotel first.

"Everyone stared at me," she recalled. "They thought I was just another hippie, I guess."

But she got conversations started by talking about gardening or grandchildren.

"Naturally the reception was mixed. People asked me often: 'Why do you throw bombs?' I always answer: 'I don't throw bombs. We oppose the throwing of firebombs—here and in Vietnam.'"

When the school term ended in June, Patty stayed on in Santa Cruz.

"I really had to stay," she said, adding that she knows some 500 elderly persons in this area well and probably has spoken to groups including that many more.

This fall she plans to expand the program and increase her study of the elderly.

"Now," she says, "I can't imagine meeting an older person who would bore me."

The reception was held at Petricca's Restaurant in Chicago at 7:30 p.m. Also attending from the are were Mr. and Mrs. Louis Grzyb and son, Richard of Bark River; Mr. and Mrs. Willard Ledger of Spalding and Mrs. Anna Deptula of Escanaba. Mr. Pokladowski returned the day after the wedding with Joseph, Mary and Cathy. Mrs. Pokladowski and three children, Jim, John and Janice remained for a visit with relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. Orval Heath of McHenry, Ill., spent a week with her mother, Mrs. Sophie Pokladowski and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Pokladowski. Mrs. Heath was the former Celia Pokladowski. Other guests at the Frank Pokladowski home were Mrs. Pokladowski's nephew and wife, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Harris of Racine.

The Misses Ginny Zahn, Mary Ann Oliver and Patricia Hipple of Dayton, Ohio were guests of Mr. and Mrs. William Peltier of Bark River and Mrs. Henry King of Escanaba, last week. The girls were close friends of the late Mary Jeanne Peltier, who was killed in a plane crash at O'Hare Airport in Chicago, Dec. 27, 1968.

Buy and Sell the Classified Way

Doubtful About Skirt Lengths? Wear Slacks

NEW YORK (AP) — If you're doubtful about skirt lenghts—buy pants. At least that's the theory of early fall shoppers.

Pants suits are the hottest selling fall item so far, according to many retailers across the country.

Customers aren't clamoring for the midcalf skirt or asking for the short mini. If anything, they're accepting hemlines at or just below the knee. But women have not gone strongly for any one length. Instead, they're buying pants combinations, sometimes with midi coats.

As a Boston retailer says, "For what sales there are, pants are most interesting to our customers."

With a few exceptions, this is the message from Atlanta, Chicago, Dayton, Dallas, Los Angeles and New York City.

Fall merchandise is pouring into stores now.

Retailers look to August and September for a clearer direction on hemlines. The longer-than-midcalf skirts at the recent Paris shows are expected to give impetus to the long look here. Retailers point to the trend of customer buying closer to time of need as a delay factor. Finally, many spokesmen explain that women remain confused and undecided.

Some retailers are dubious about customer acceptance of midis and are unhappy about sales to date.

Other retailers take their booming pants sales in stride.

More people get more news from newspapers than all other sources combined.

Ex-Highland Park Man Suing City

DETROIT (AP) — A suit for one-half million dollers has been filed against the city of Highland Park and a group of city officials and employes.

Lester Ramsey, formerly of Highland Park, filed the suit this week in Detroit's U.S. District Court.

He asked $500,000 in damages from the city, the mayor, the police chief and fire chief and 13 other policemen and firemen.

Ramsey alleges police broke into his apartment in Highland Park in search of a fugitive last March, fired bullets and tear gas shells, caused damage of some $14,000, started a fire and stole some $6,600 in cash and jewelry valued at more than $22,500.

Ramsey said he was not in the apartment at the time and the fugitive, unknown to him, was found there.

Ramsey alleged in a criminal complaint that police and firemen stole his property. He said the fugitive surrendered to Highland Park police later in the day.

Senior High Boys Back Status Quo

ANN ARBOR (AP) — Two University of Michigan researchers, who have been working on a national survey of more than 2,000 high school senior boys, say that by and large those surveyed support the status quo.

"The majority of young men in our sample do not fit the 'generation gap' stereotype of rebellious youth casting aside the values of their elders," say Jerome Johnston and Jerald G. Bachman of the U-M Institute of Social Research.

Johnston and Bachman's findings are in a 119-page preliminary report called "Young Men Look at Military Service." The study is special part of a larger continuing probe, called "Youth in Transition."

The researchers say that: "In fact, the dominant position they (those surveyed) express essentially supports the status quo."

"They are not strongly opposed to the war in Vietnam, nor are they anti-military or pacifist. They agree that it is important to fight the spread of Communism. They see good citizenship primarily in terms of obedience to law and pride in country. For them military service provides an opportunity to serve the country and prove oneself a man."

They said 20 per cent or so dissent from this dominant position.

Regarding the war, 40 per cent of the boys clearly supported the government's Vietnam policy, 20 per cent disagreed, and the remaining 40 per cent had attitudes which could not be classified either for or against.

Ex-Highland Park Man Suing City

DETROIT (AP) — A suit for one-half million dollars has been filed against the city of Highland Park and a group of city officials and employes.

Lester Ramsey, formerly of Highland Park, filed the suit this week in Detroit's U.S. District Court.

He asked $500,000 in damages from the city, the mayor, the police chief and fire chief and 13 other policemen and firemen.

Ramsey alleges police broke into his apartment in Highland Park in search of a fugitive last March, fired bullets and tear gas shells, caused damage of some $14,000, started a fire and stole some $6,600 in cash and jewelry valued at more than $22,500.

Husband Gets Break Under New State Law

LANSING (AP) — Gov. William Milliken has signed into Law a bill that, in effect, gives equal rights to men in divorce cases.

The measure provides that in divorce cases the court may award alimony, child support or other payments to the husband as well as the wife.

Key phrases in the bill said the court "may require either party to pay alimony" and "may require either party to pay (maintenance) allowance as may be deemed proper for support of each child."

The measure was among 21 signed into law by the governor.

The governor vetoed a bill that would have increased the payment of an additional $1 in the service fee for any civil action in the Detroit Common Pleas Court.

The additional fees would have gone to court bailiffs as increased salary. The governor said this would mean at least a $4,000 annual pay increase, or higher, for the court bailiffs and said he saw no need for the hike.

Milliken hailed as another successful step in the fight against pollution the signing of a bill banning the discharge of wastes from commercial and recreational watercraft into Michigan waters.

He said it provides Michigan with another step in a program that will be "the nation's toughest anti-pollution laws regarding pollution."

Other bills signed will:

—Require a hunting license for persons transporting and possessing firearms prior to and during deer hunting season.

—Require the director of the Department of Agriculture to update state meat inspection programs to meet standards of the Federal Wholesome Meat Act.

—Permit members of the House of Representatives to choose their seats on the House floor by a drawing rather than through the present system in which members with equal seniority choose in alphabetical order.

—Provide local governmental units with authority to regulate the construction, repair and demolition of historic structures within their limits.

—Provide for regulation of the construction and operation of camp grounds where various types of trailers and tents are used on a temporary or seasonal basis.

—Provide requirements for licensing of trailer coach parks operated on a year-around basis, liberalizing present service building requirements and clarifying the law regarding establishment of facilities in such parks.

115 Lawmakers In State Safe Until November

DETROIT (AP) — With a handful of Detroit primary contests still in doubt because of computer-caused counting delays, at least 115 of the 148 Michigan legislators appeared today to be set for November re-election races.

A preliminary count showed 60 Democrats and 55 Republicans renominated in the Tuesday balloting. Democrats led 44-41 in the House and 16-14 in the Senate in re-election ratios.

Three other Detroit Democrats, Reps. E. D. O'Brien, Michael Novak and James Del Rio, held leads but could not be declared victors on the basis of fragmentary returns available late Wednesday.

Not all of those assured of spots on the November ballot had to face primary contests. A total of 51 went unopposed in the Tuesday voting.

One, Rep. Dominic Jacobetti, D-Negaunee, will return to Lansing next year by default. He had no challengers in the primary and nobody signed up on the Republican side for November. So Jacobetti is home free.

A different fate befell Russell H. Strange, a 35-year-old Republican from Mt. Pleasant who has been in the Legislature since 1956 and was Republican caucus chairman in the current session.

Voters in his 100th District dumped him, favoring John Engler of Mt. Pleasant by a narrow 3,493-3,331 margin. In the 1968 general election, Strange had won by nearly 6,000 votes.

Others who were upset included Rep. Robert States, R-Manitou Beach, and Sens. Roger Craig, D-Dearborn, Raymond Dzeindzel D-Detroit, and George Kuhn, R-Birmingham.

Generally, however, incumbents fared well in the primary.

Bipartisan Support Sought By Milliken

LANSING (AP) — "You are here now to finish the job," Gov. William Milliken told legislators sternly as they straggled in for what most lawmakers hoped would be a swift windup of the 1970 session.

Milliken, runaway winner of the Republican nomination for governor, had other ideas.

He asked bipartisan action on at least seven issues.

Many lawmakers are thinking of just meeting for half a day Thursday and the same Friday. The losers in the primary couldn't care less. The winners with tough competition either want to start campaigning again or take a vacation.

Milliken has urged Sen. Sander Levin, D-Berkley, his Democratic opponent, to call off partisan politics and work with him to finish the legislative work. The governor suggested the legislature remain through next week.

Milliken said there has been "a substantial record of cooperation" and asked that it continue.

He said legislation still is needed in the fields of environment and pollution control, education reform, aid to Detroit, the crime crisis, drug abuse, the 18-year-old vote and housing.

Listing the issue in a special written message to legislators, due to reconvene at 10 a.m., Milliken told them they should act on:

1. Several bills "to make our water pollution control laws the best in the nation."

2. Education reform, especially the placing of a property tax limitation amendment on the ballot. This would shift more responsibility for school operating costs from the local property tax to state sources.

3. Passage of a $5 million grant to Detroit plus approval of an increase in the city tax on utilities.

4. Creation of an independent commission on investigations to halt crime plus better control of explosives.

5. Passage of a group of drug abuse reform laws which Milliken said would "deal a severe blow to the drug traffic."

6. Passage of a resolution to lower the voting age to 18.

7. Changing the state construction code to aid the work of the State Housing Development Authority.

Education Unit Recall Shakes Up Motor City

DETROIT (AP)—An emotionally charged campaign has resulted in the recall of four members of the Detroit Board of Education who supported a controversial decentralization plan designed to increase integration in the massive school district.

The recall marks the first time in the 128-year history of the Detroit school system that a board member has been thrown out of office.

With about half the city's vote counted late Wednesday, the four board members were being recalled by a 60 per cent majority with voting sharply split along racial lines.

Counting of ballots in Tuesday's election was delayed by computer breakdowns. Final results in the election were not expected until some time today.

Aubrey Short, chairman of the campaign, said late Wednesday:

"I hope voters will make it a point when they elect a new board in November to select persons who represent the views of the people so we can turn the schools into what we think they should be."

Earlier, Short had said that his group objected to the changed attendance patterns under the boards' plan because it would subject children to, among other things, physical dangers in traveling longer distances than necessary. Short said he favors the neighborhood school concept.

The four recalled board members are President Darneau Stewart, Vice-President Andrew Perdue, A.L. Zwerdling and Peter F. Frylls.

The recall could leave the 292,000-student school system, the nation's fourth largest, without a school board quorum for as much as four months.

Union Proposes Assembly Workers Stay With Autos

DETROIT (AP) — The United Auto Workers Union proposed Wednesday that teams of workers follow a new car down the assembly line, working on the car from start to finish, rather than perform one simple, 20 second task repeatedly.

The UAW said such a revolutional change in assembly line technique would make the jobs of auto workers more interesting and improve the quality of the product.

The proposal was made to Ford Motor Co. by Kenneth Bannon, chief UAW negotiator Ford. There was no immediate response from the company.

According to the UAW, the the widespread boredom that comes from monotonous and unpleasant jobs has contributed to breakdowns in plant discipline.

Bannon told Ford Negotiators that in addition to improved quality, the trend however mounting absenteeism could be reversed if the worker takes a greater interest in his job and the product the company makes.

Husband Gets Break Under New State Law

LANSING (AP) — Gov. William Milliken has signed into Law a bill that, in effect, gives equal rights to men in divorce cases.

The measure provides that in divorce cases the court may award alimony, child support or other payments to the husband as well as the wife.

Key phrases in the bill said the court "may require either party to pay alimony" and "may require either party to pay (maintenance) allowance as may be deemed proper for support of each child."

The measure was among 21 signed into law by the governor.

The governor vetoed a bill that would have increased the payment of an additional $1 in the service fee for any civil action in the Detroit Common Pleas Court.

The additional fees would have gone to court bailiffs as increased salary. The governor said this would mean at least a $4,000 annual pay increase, or higher, for the court bailiffs and said he saw no need for the hike.

Milliken hailed as another successful step in the fight against pollution the signing of a bill banning the discharge of wastes from commercial and recreational watercraft into Michigan waters.

He said it provides Michigan with another step in a program that will be "the nation's toughest anti-pollution laws regarding pollution."

Other bills signed will:

—Require a hunting license for persons transporting and possessing firearms prior to and during deer hunting season.

—Require the director of the Department of Agriculture to update state meat inspection programs to meet standards of the Federal Wholesome Meat Act.

—Permit members of the House of Representatives to choose their seats on the House floor by a drawing rather than through the present system in which members with equal seniority choose in alphabetical order.

—Provide local governmental units with authority to regulate the construction, repair and demolition of historic structures within their limits.

—Provide for regulation of the construction and operation of camp grounds where various types of trailers and tents are used on a temporary or seasonal basis.

—Provide requirements for licensing of trailer coach parks operated on a year-around basis, liberalizing present service building requirements and clarifying the law regarding establishment of facilities in such parks.

115 Lawmakers In State Safe Until November

DETROIT (AP) — With a handful of Detroit primary contests still in doubt because of computer-caused counting delays, at least 115 of the 148 Michigan legislators appeared today to be set for November re-election races.

A preliminary count showed 60 Democrats and 55 Republicans renominated in the Tuesday balloting. Democrats led 44-41 in the House and 16-14 in the Senate in re-election ratios.

Three other Detroit Democrats, Reps. E. D. O'Brien, Michael Novak and James Del Rio, held leads but could not be declared victors on the basis of fragmentary returns available late Wednesday.

Not all of those assured of spots on the November ballot had to face primary contests. A total of 51 went unopposed in the Tuesday voting.

One, Rep. Dominic Jacobetti, D-Negaunee, will return to Lansing next year by default. He had no challengers in the primary and nobody signed up on the Republican side for November. So Jacobetti is home free.

A different fate befell Russell H. Strange, a 35-year-old Republican from Mt. Pleasant who has been in the Legislature since 1956 and was Republican caucus chairman in the current session.

Voters in his 100th District dumped him, favoring John Engler of Mt. Pleasant by a narrow 3,493-3,331 margin. In the 1968 general election, Strange had won by nearly 6,000 votes.

Others who were upset included Rep. Robert Stites, R-Manitou Beach, and Sens. Roger Craig, D-Dearborn, Raymond Dzeindzel D-Detroit, and George Kuhn, R-Birmingham.

Generally, however, incumbents fared well in the primary.

Bipartisan Support Sought By Milliken

LANSING (AP) — "You are here now to finish the job," Gov. William Milliken told legislators sternly as they straggled in for what most lawmakers hoped would be a swift windup of the 1970 session.

Milliken, runaway winner of the Republican nomination for governor, had other ideas.

He asked bipartisan action on at least seven issues.

Many lawmakers are thinking of just meeting for half a day Thursday and the same Friday. The losers in the primary couldn't care less. The winners with tough competition either want to start campaigning again or take a vacation.

Milliken has urged Sen. Sander Levin, D-Berkley, his Democratic opponent, to call off partisan politics and work with him to finish the legislative work. The governor suggested the legislature remain through next week.

Milliken said there has been "a substantial record of cooperation" and asked that it continue.

He said legislation still is needed in the fields of environment and pollution control, education reform, aid to Detroit, the crime crisis, drug abuse, the 18-year-old vote and housing.

Listing the issue in a special written message to legislators, due to reconvene at 10 a.m., Milliken told them they should act on:

1. Several bills "to make our water pollution control laws the best in the nation."

2. Education reform, especially the placing of a property tax limitation amendment on the ballot. This would shift more responsibility for school operating costs from the local property tax to state sources.

3. Passage of a $5 million grant to Detroit plus approval of an increase in the city tax on utilities.

4. Creation of an independent commission on investigations to halt crime plus better control of explosives.

5. Passage of a group of drug abuse reform laws which Milliken said would "deal a severe blow to the drug traffic."

6. Passage of a resolution to lower the voting age to 18.

7. Changing the state construction code to aid the work of the State Housing Development Authority.

Education Unit Recall Shakes Up Motor City

DETROIT (AP)—An emotionally charged campaign has resulted in the recall of four members of the Detroit Board of Education who supported a controversial decentralization plan designed to increase integration in the massive school district.

The recall marks the first time in the 128-year history of the Detroit school system that a board member has been thrown out of office.

With about half the city's vote counted late Wednesday, the four board members were being recalled by a 60 per cent majority with voting sharply split along racial lines.

Counting of ballots in Tuesday's election was delayed by computer breakdowns. Final results in the election were not expected until some time today.

Aubrey Short, chairman of the campaign, said late Wednesday: "I hope voters will make it a point when they elect a new board in November to select persons who represent the views of the people so we can turn the schools into what we think they should be."

Earlier, Short had said that his group objected to the changed attendance patterns under the boards' plan because it would subject children to, among other things, physical dangers in traveling longer distances than necessary. Short said he favors the neighborhood school concept.

The four recalled board members are President Darneau Stewart, Vice-President Andrew Perdue, A.L. Zwerdling and Peter F. Frylls.

The recall could leave the 292,000-student school system, the nation's fourth largest, without a school board quorum for as much as four months.

Union Proposes Assembly Workers Stay With Autos

DETROIT (AP) — The United Auto Workers Union proposed Wednesday that teams of workers follow a new car down the assembly line, working on the car from start to finish, rather than perform one simple, 20 second task repeatedly.

The UAW said such a revolutional change in assembly line technique would make the jobs of auto workers more interesting and improve the quality of the product.

The proposal was made to Ford Motor Co. by Kenneth Bannon, chief UAW negotiator Ford. There was no immediate response from the company.

According to the UAW, the the widespread boredom that comes from monotonous and unpleasant jobs has contributed to breakdowns in plant discipline.

Bannon told Ford Negotiators that in addition to improved quality, the trend however mounting absenteeism could be reversed if the worker takes a greater interest in his job and the product the company makes.

Goebel and Jolly Roger advanced in the city softball tournament Wednesday night at Memorial Field with Goebel scoring six runs in the sixth inning to edge Trenary 8-7 in the final first round game while Jolly Roger eliminated Gladstone 7-1.

In the first game Wednesday night, Greg Johnson, who had two home runs and was three-for-three at the plate, sparked the sixth-inning uprising by hitting back-to-back homers in Goebel's six-run outburst. Trenary threatened in the last inning by scoring two runs but couldn't overcome the scoring punch of the Goebel nine.

Besides Greg Johnson's three hits, Dck Johnson had three safeties to pace the Goebel attack. Ray Payment got credit for the victory while Marv Parrot, who had two hits for Trenary, was tagged with the defeat.

In the second game, "Jug" Bourdeau handcuffed Gladstone on three hits while striking out eight, as the Jolly Roger nine took an early 3-0 lead and then closed the doors on a couple of late outbursts by Gladstone.

Four walks and two singles by Jim and Jug Bourdeau gave Jolly Roger its early 3-0 lead. The winners added one in the fourth and three in the fifth to win their first game in the tourney.

Martin Oslund, Jug and Dennis Bourdeau paced the Jolly Roger attack with two hits apiece while Ricky Ebbessen led Gladstone with two of the three hits off of Bourdeau. Melvin LaCosse took the mound loss for Gladstone.

All-Star Game

Herb Adderley Calls It Quits

GREEN BAY, Wis. — Another familiar name was removed from a locker in the Green Bay Packers' dressing room Wednesday after outspoken veteran cornerback Herb Adderley retired.

Adderley, who could cover receivers like a shadow, thus joined several distinguished colleagues into retirement — Boyd Dowler, Willie Davis, Henry Jordan and Forest Gregg. Gone too is Marv Fleming, Elijah Pitts, Bob Hyland and Lee Roy Caffey.

It was Adderley who flung names at his coaches last winter for being omitted from the pro bowl squad. At that time he threatened to retire if the Packers wouldn't trade him.

Hopeful that time would heal old wounds, Coach - General Manager Phil Bengtson figured Adderley in his 1970 plans although he did emphasize the selection of defensive halfbacks in the college draft.

The waiting game finally came to an end Wednesday noon when Bengtson called a press conference and said, "The question you people have been asking can be finally answered. Adderley has decided to retire. I talked to him (at Philadelphia) this morning and he hold me that he was going into private business."

Bengtson said he was not surprised by Adderley's decision but admitted that he had been trying to persuade his unhappy veteran "all along" to report. But Wednesday morning the Green Bay headmaster demanded a yes or no answer.

How deep will Adderley's retirement hurt the Packers?

"Boy, you never know," Bengtson replied.

The other corner is well set with Bob Jeter. Willie Wood, a 10 year veteran, still moves like a young man at right safety and Doug Hart does the job at strong safety.

Two Choices

"Now we will be forced to do one of two things," Bengtson pointed out. "We can play a rookie out there (Adderley's spot) or we can move Hart to the corner, with Gordon Rule or someone else at strong safety."

Bengtson does have good young defensive halfbacks. They include Leon Harden, up from last year's taxi squad. Second round draft choice Al Matthews, fourth round draft choice Ken Ellis and sixth round draft choice Ervin Hunt.

Bengtson said Harden "probably will start" in the preseason opener here Saturday night against the New York Giants. The Packer coach is not opposed to using a new man at cornerback, pointing out that Jim Marsals made it on a super bowl team (Kansas City) last year as a rookie.

The core of the Green Bay defense, though, is Bengtson's linebacking crew. Dave Robinson is all-pro on the left side and he has redoubtable colleagues. Ray Nitschke, the middlebacker, is still among the elite stars, and Fred Carr is no slouch on the other side.

Massive Line

With the line, now massive with the addition of Mike McCoy, and linebackers putting pressure on the passer, the secondary should be able to do the job.

Having worked as a unit for several years, both Jeter and Wood had hoped that Adderley would change heart and report to the Packers.

"I hate to hear that," said Jeter, when told of Herb's retirement. "I heard as late as May that he wasn't coming back but I always kept thinking he'd change his mind."

The fact that Jeter, who had been Herb's roommate, made the Pro Bowl squad was one of Adderley's main points in his grievance.

"I didn't pay any attention to those remarks," Jeter said. "In a lot of situations you say things and then it's worded in a way that comes out bad."

Wood Surprised

Wood revealed that when he contacted Adderley to inform him of the players' settlement with the owners, Herb indicated that he would come to camp but not before he signed his contract.

"I'm surprised, very much so," Willie said. "When I talked to him Sunday he indicated he was going to get together with Phil.

"I don't know anything about Herb's off season business, but apparently it's a good one. It's got to be."

Wood indicated that it would take two years for a new man to mold into a veteran unit. "There are exceptions, like Lem Barney of Detroit, but those guys don't come around too often," he sad.

A disappointed and slightly surprised Robinson pointed to the records held by Adderley and said, "It would be impossible to fill his position — just like that," and he added, "The Packers may never get another Herb Adderley."

Then, with tongue in cheek, he said, "I'd rather see him retire than go to another team."

Lolich Beats Nats, Eyes .500 Season

DETROIT (AP) — Modest Detroit Tigers bats have forced Mickey Lolich to drastically modify his season's pitching goal—from an original aim of winning 20 games, to simply breaking even at .500.

"I'm not an under-.500 pitcher and I want to get back there," Lolich emphasized Wednesday night after going the distance in a 3-1 Tiger victory over the Washington Senators.

First Complete Game

It was the first complete game at home for Detroit in a month and put the paunchy southpaw's record at 10-12. It also stopped the Tigers' losing skid at four games but they remain in third in the American League East 10 games behind Baltimore and half a game behind New York.

Second place is at stake in Detroit's three-game series against the Yankees beginning with a twi-night doubleheader today that opens a 15-game road trip. Les Cain, 10-3, and Joe Niekro, 10-8, were slated to pitch against the Yankees' Stan Bahnsen, 10-7, and Mel Stottlemyre, 10-9.

"I figure I have 12 starts left and I want to get back to .500," Lolich said. "... That's my big goal."

His big goal last year was to win 20—he got 19. The 20-win mark was also his aim at the start of this year.

Never A Losing Season

"I've never had a losing season except my rookie year," he added solemnly, as he put on his socks in front of his corner locker stall in the Tiger clubhouse.

"Actually, I've pitched good all this year except for two ball games. Otherwise, I've been going six or seven good innings and keeping the club close. This year has been one of my best as far as keeping the club close."

For a while it looked like Lolich would again be a victim of anemic Tiger bats, a problem that helps account for his mediocre record. He had a one-run lead for seven innings and when the game was over his teammates had still managed only six hits.

The hitters got just one run for him his last outing, one the time before that, and an unearned run three starts ago. He had no decision in the final one and lost the first two. It has been a similar situation most of the year.

Lolich has worked 192 innings, 36 more than anyone else on the staff. His earned-run average at game time was 3.44.

Williams' Decision Backfires

The turning point Wednesday night came in the bottom of the seventh inning when Washington manager Ted Williams replaced starting pitcher Jim Shellenback with Joe Coleman and put Rick Reichardt in rightfield in place of Tom Grieve.

Detroit was ahead 1-0 but Don Wert led off with a double off Coleman and reached third when the ball got past Richardt for an error. Coleman then threw a wild pitch scoring Wert with what proved to be the winning run.

"Shellenback felt a twitch in his shoulder the inning before," Williams explained. "I would have taken him out right then but he said he was okay."

"Besides, Coleman has been sitting on the bench for four days and he was ready," he added. "And I wanted to have Reichardt play the outfield to loosen up his sore wrist so he'd have a better chance to hit leading off the eight."

Wert singled home the first Tiger run in the fourth off Shellenback, 6-4, following a double by Al Kaline.

The Senators scored a run in the eighth on a double by Reichardt, a wild pitch, and Ed Brinkman's sacrifice fly.

Mickey Stanley added Detroit's final score in the ninth with his 10th homer.

Four Lions Fined, Rated Holdouts

CRANBROOK (AP) — Four Detroit Lions remain out of camp today as Alex Karras, Lem Barney, Mike Weger and Ed Mooney all picked up $100 fines for their "holdouts" Wednesday.

Mel Farr and Paul Naumoff signed with Russ Thomas, Lion general manager Wednesday in time to make afternoon practice and avoid the cash penalty.

Farr said "You're never really happy in these negotiations, but I'm satisfied." He added "I guess you would say it was a a compromise—I just wanted to play football."

Naumoff had another attitude, after his three year contract was signed he smiled and said "I'm happy. I'm naturally surprised that I got what I got."

Thomas said that Karras told him by phone that "He was staying in Iowa." When the general manager reminded the veteran tackle it was costing him $100 a day Karras, told him he knew it.

The Lions are preparing for their opening Saturday night against the champion Kansas City Chiefs in an exhibition game in Detroit.

River Post battled back to score three runs in the third and added three more runs in the last inning to win the all-important contest.

Ironwood Youth Tops U.P. Men's Golf Tournament

SAULT STE. MARIE — Ray Kolosar, 19-year-old Ironwood golfer who made a bid for the Men's Upper Peninsula Golf Tournament championship at Menominee last year before falling back in the third round, stood as the man to beat in the 1970 tournament today at Canadian Soo Golf Club.

Kolosar held a three-stroke lead over his nearest rivals this morning as the large field of golfers from the Upper Peninsula Golf Association member clubs teed off for the second round of the 72-hole medal play tournament.

The young man from Ironwood carded a one-under-par 17 in the opening round Monday, fashining nines of 34 and 37 over the par 36-36—72 course.

A year ago, Kolosar was tied for the lead in the U.P. tournament at Menominee after 36 holes, but soared to an 82 on the third day of the tournament to fall out of contention.

Playing conditions were ideal Wednesday but golfers met difficultes on the greens and scores climbed over par.

Larry Tiziana of Ironwood and Paul Kates of Canadian Soo each carded 74, three strokes behind Kolosar, and three golfers were bracketed at 75.

Escanaba's contingent was paced by George Young of the Country Club with 78. Other scores included an 81 by Jack Smith of Highland, 82 by Mel Manske of Highland, 84 by Dave Friets of Highland and an 85 by Dick Knoll of the Country Club.

Defending champion Ken Hruska of Marquette turned in a five-over-par 77. A total of 28 golfers recorded scores of 79 or better.

The championship flight will be trimmed to the low 18 golfers after today's round for the final two rounds of the tournament Friday and Saturday.

Oyler Mini-Hero In Angel Victory

By The Associated Press

Somewhere in baseball-barren Seattle, a small group of die-hard fans surely are cheering again for Ray Oyler after he gave California fans something to cheer about for the first time.

The light-hitting shortstop, who left Seattle before the baseball team did finally made some fans in Anaheim as the mini-hero in the Angels' 7-5 victory over the Minnesota Twins in Minneapolis Wednesday night.

Jim Spencer was the big hero with two two-run homers, including the game winner in the eighth inning, as the Angels remained tied for second place and pulled within seven games of the leading Twins in the American League West.

Does The Unexpected

But it was Oyler, a fifth inning replacement for All-Star shortstop Jim Fregosi, who did the unexpected—he got a base hit—setting off the winning three-run explosion in the eighth, and then he squeezed home an insurance run in the ninth.

Oakland, tied with the Angels, kept pace with a 4-1 victory over Kansas City, while elsewhere, Baltimore slapped down Boston 3-0, Detroit tripped Washington 3-1, the New York Yankees dropped Cleveland 7-3 and the Chicago White Sox bombed Milwaukee 9-3.

The Angels, despite Spencer's two-run homer in the sixth inning, entered the eighth trailing 5-3. It was here that they must have really felt the pain in Fregosi's back, which he injured the night before and forced him out of this game.

Instead of Fregosi leading off the eighth, it was Oyler, who oddly had a rabid fan club in Seattle last season despite his .176 career batting average. After being traded first to Oakland and then sold to the Angels, he hadn't made much of a hit in Anaheim without a hit in nine times at bat.

Squeese Play

Refusing to rest on his laurels in the ninth, Oyler squeezed in Sandy Alomar with another run.

Oakland relied on the big bat of Don Mincher and the pitching of Chuck Dobson, 13-10. Mincher hit two doubles and a single and drove in two runs behind Dobson's four-hitter.

Jim Palmer equalled his 16 victories of 1969 by clipping Boston on four hits as Baltimore won its fourth in a row and ended Sonny Siebert's personal winning string at five games.

The Yankees jumped on Sam McDowell, 16-6, with two run homers by Thurman Munson and Bobby Murcer. Then, after Ray Fosse pulled the Indians within one run in the sixth with a three-run homer, Pete Ward and Gene Michael singled in runs in the ninth and another scored on an error.

Ed Herrmann hit the first grand slam homer of his career and Jim Magnuson won his first major league game for the White Sox. Bill Melton also drove in two runs and Syd O'Brien hit a two-run homer.

Mets Use Right Ointment In 5-2 Win Over Cards

By The Associated Press

The New York Mets put ointment on Gary Gentry's blister and reliever Danny Frisella in Gentry's place as starting pitcher. It was the right treatment.

When Gentry developed a blister on his pitching hand, Frisella, also a right-hander was given his first start of the season and he worked 7 2-3 innings in the Mets' 5-3 victory over St. Louis Wednesday night.

The victory kept the Mets a game behind the first-place Pittsburgh Pirates, 4-0 winners over Philadelphia, in the National League East.

Elsewhere in the National League, Montreal beat Chicago 6-2 before the Cubs came back to win 11-3, San Francisco stopped Cincinnati 5-3, Houston shaded San Diego 4-3 in 10 innings and Los Angeles blasted Atlanta 12-2.

Frisella, who had relieved 10 times this season, stopped the Cardinals on four hits and a run until Vic Davalillo's pinch triple with two-out in the enghth. Frisella, 5-1, was relieved by Ron Taylor who gave up an RBI single to Joe Torre, making it 5-2, and then stopped St. Louis the rest of the way.

Stops Phils On 2 Hits

With the Pittsburgh starting rotation upset by injuries, Luke Walker, 8-3, joined the Pirates' relievers-turned-starters and stopped Philadelphia on two hits, singles by Jim Hutto and Mike Ryan in the sixth.

Al Oliver drove in three runs for Pittsburgh with a groundout and a two-run homer, and the Pirates' Bill Mazeroski recorded his 4,781 putout in the sixth setting a National League record for career putouts by a second baseman.

It was all Bob Bailey on offense in Montreal's first-game victory. Bailey lashed a two-run single and three-run homer to back Mike Wegener's seven-hit pitching.

Rookie Wins For Cubs

In the nightcap, Cubs' rookie southpaw Larry Gura, making his second start, won his first major league game. An RBI single by Glenn Beckert and Jim Hickman's three-run homer sent the Cubs to a 4-0 lead in the first inning. John Callison also homered for Chicago, while Rusty Staub and John Boccabella homered for Montreal.

Gaylord Perry, 15-10, stopped Cincinnati on four hits and drove in what proved to be the winning run with a sacrifice fly in the fourth. Perry no-hit the Reds until they scored on three walks and two hits in the sixth.

After Pete Rose singled with one out, three walks forced in a run and Lee May's two-out double drove in two. But Bernie Carbo was thrown out trying to score on the double, ending the inning.

Houston scored two runs in the eighth on Cesar Cedeno's RBI infield hit and shortstop Jose Arcia's throwing error and then won in the 10th on Johnny Edwards, two-out, run-scoring single.

Al Ferrara's RBI single, an error and Chris Cannizzaro's run-producting double had built a 3-0 San Diego lead.

Willie Davis cracked a bases-loaded homer and Bill Russell pounded two triples and a single enabling Los Angeles' Alan Foster to coast to his seventh victory against nine losses. Orlando Cepeda hit his 24th homer for Atlanta

Girls Softball

Lombardi's banged out six home runs in a Girl's Softball League game Tuesday evening and went on to defeat Jaeger Brothers by a 20-9 margin.

Judy Erickson and Debbie Bergeson each hit two home runs for the winners and Denise Porath and Judy Sundberg chipped in with one each.

Goebel and Jolly Roger advanced in the city softball tournament Wednesday night at Memorial Field with Goebel scoring six runs in the sixth inning to edge Trenary 8-7 in the final first round game while Jolly Roger eliminated Gladstone 7-1.

In the first game Wednesday night, Greg Johnson, who had two home runs and was three-for-three at the plate, sparked the sixth-inning uprising by hitting back-to-back homers in Goebel's six-run outburst. Trenary threatened in the last inning by scoring two runs but couldn't overcome the scoring punch of the Goebel nine.

Besides Greg Johnson's three hits, Dck Johnson had three safeties to pace the Goebel attack. Ray Payment got credit for the victory while Marv Parrot, who had two hits for Trenary, was tagged with the defeat.

In the second game, "Jug" Bourdeau handcuffed Gladstone on three hits while striking out eight, as the Jolly Roger nine took an early 3-0 lead and then closed the doors on a couple of late outbursts by Gladstone.

Four walks and two singles by Jim and Jug Bourdeau gave Jolly Roger its early 3-0 lead. The winners added one in the fourth and three in the fifth to win their first game in the tourney.

Martin Oslund, Jug and Dennis Bourdeau paced the Jolly Roger attack with two hits apiece while Ricky Ebbessen led Gladstone with two of the three hits off of Bourdeau. Melvin LaCosse took the mound loss for Gladstone.

All-Star Game

In the Minor League All-Star game played Wednesday night the American League upended the National League All-Stars 19-17 in a nine inning affair.

Herb Adderley Calls It Quits

GREEN BAY, Wis. — Another familiar name was removed from a locker in the Green Bay Packers' dressing room Wednesday after outspoken veteran cornerback Herb Adderley retired.

Adderley, who could cover receivers like a shadow, thus joined several distinguished colleagues into retirement — Boyd Dowler, Willie Davis, Henry Jordan and Forest Gregg. Gone too is Marv Fleming, Elijah Pitts, Bob Hyland and Lee Roy Caffey.

It was Adderley who flung names at his coaches last winter for being omitted from the pro bowl squad. At that time he threatened to retire if the Packers wouldn't trade him.

Hopeful that time would heal old wounds. Coach - General Manager Phil Bengtson figured Adderley in his 1970 plans although he did emphasize the selection of defensive halfbacks in the college draft.

The waiting game finally came to an end Wednesday noon when Bengtson called a press conference and said, "The question you people have been asking can be finally answered. Adderley has decided to retire. I talked to him (at Philadelphia) this morning and he hold me that he was going into private business."

Bengtson said he was not surprised by Adderley's decision but admitted that he had been trying to persuade his unhappy veteran "all along" to report. But Wednesday morning the Green Bay headmaster demanded a yes or no answer.

How deep will Adderley's retirement hurt the Packers?

"Boy, you never know," Bengtson replied.

The other corner is well set with Bob Jeter. Willie Wood, a 10 year veteran, still moves like a young man at right safety and Doug Hart does the job at strong safety.

Two Choices

"Now we will be forced to do one of two things," Bengtson pointed out. "We can play a rookie out there (Adderley's spot) or we can move Hart to the corner, with Gordon Rule or someone else at strong safety."

Bengtson does have good young defensive halfbacks. They include Leon Harden, up from last year's taxi squad. Second round draft choice Al Matthews, fourth round draft choice Ken Ellis and sixth round draft choice Ervin Hunt.

Bengtson said Harden "probably will start" in the preseason opener here Saturday night against the New York Giants. The Packer coach is not opposed to using a new man at cornerback, pointing out that Jim Marsals made it on a super bowl team (Kansas City) last year as a rookie.

The core of the Green Bay defense, though, is Bengtson's linebacking crew. Dave Robinson is all-pro on the left side and he has redoubtable colleagues. Ray Nitschke, the middlebacker, is still among the elite stars, and Fred Carr is no slouch on the other side.

Massive Line

With the line, now massive with the addition of Mike McCoy, and linebackers putting pressure on the passer, the secondary should be able to do the job.

Having worked as a unit for several years, both Jeter and Wood had hoped that Adderley would change heart and report to the Packers.

"I hate to hear that," said Jeter, when told of Herb's retirement. "I heard as late as May that he wasn't coming back but I always kept thinking he'd change his mind."

The fact that Jeter, who had been Herb's roommate, made the Pro Bowl squad was one of Adderley's main points in his grievance.

"I didn't pay any attention to those remarks," Jeter said. "In a lot of situations you say things and then it's worded in a way that comes out bad."

Wood Surprised

Wood revealed that when he contacted Adderley to inform him of the players' settlement with the owners, Herb indicated that he would come to camp but not before he signed his contract.

"I'm surprised, very much so," Willie said. "When I talked to him Sunday he indicated he was going to get together with Phil.

"I don't know anything about Herb's off season business, but apparently it's a good one. It's got to be."

Wood indicated that it would take two years for a new man to mold into a veteran unit. "There are exceptions, like Lem Barney of Detroit, but those guys don't come around too often," he sad.

A disappointed and slightly surprised Robinson pointed to the records held by Adderley and said, "It would be impossible to fill his position — just like that," and he added, "The Packers may never get another Herb Adderley."

Then, with tougue in cheek, he said, "I'd rather see him retire than go to another team."

Lolich Beats Nats, Eyes .500 Season

DETROIT (AP) — Modest Detroit Tigers bats have forced Mickey Lolich to drastically modify his season's pitching goal—from an original aim of winning 20 games, to simply breaking even at .500.

"I'm not an under-.500 pitcher and I want to get back there," Lolich emphasized Wednesday night after going the distance in a 3-1 Tiger victory over the Washington Senators.

First Complete Game

It was the first complete game at home for Detroit in a month and put the paunchy southpaw's record at 10-12. It also stopped the Tigers' losing skid at four games but they remain in third in the American League East 10 games behind Baltimore and half a game behind New York.

Second place is at stake in Detroit's three-game series against the Yankees beginning with a twi-night doubleheader today that opens a 15-game road trip. Les Cain, 10-3, and Joe Niekro, 10-8, were slated to pitch against the Yankees' Stan Bahnsen, 10-7, and Mel Stottlemyre, 10-9.

"I figure I have 12 starts left and I want to get back to .500," Lolich said. "... That's my big goal."

His big goal last year was to win 20—he got 19. The 20-win mark was also his aim at the start of this year.

Never A Losing Season

"I've never had a losing season except my rookie year," he added solemnly, as he put on his socks in front of his corner locker stall in the Tiger clubhouse.

"Actually, I've pitched good all this year except for two ball games. Otherwise, I've been going six or seven good innings and keeping the club close. This year has been one of my best as far as keeping the club close."

For a while it looked like Lolich would again be a victim of anemic Tiger bats, a problem that helps account for his mediocre record. He had a one-run lead for seven innings and when the game was over his teammates had still managed only six hits.

The hitters got just one run for him his last outing, one the time before that, and an unearned run three starts ago. He had no decision in the final one and lost the first two. It has been a similar situation most of the year.

Lolich has worked 192 innings, 36 more than anyone else on the staff. His earned-run average at game time was 3.44.

Williams' Decision Backfires

The turning point Wednesday night came in the bottom of the seventh inning when Washington manager Ted Williams replaced starting pitcher Jim Shellenback with Joe Coleman and put Rick Reichardt in rightfield in place of Tom Grieve.

Detroit was ahead 1-0 but Don Wert led off with a double off Coleman and reached third when the ball got past Richardt for an error. Coleman then threw a wild pitch scoring Wert with what proved to be the winning run.

"Shellenback felt a twitch in his shoulder the inning before," Williams explained. "I would have taken him out right then but he said he was okay."

"Besides, Coleman has been sitting on the bench for four days and he was ready," he added. "And I wanted to have Reichardt play the outfield to loosen up his sore wrist so he'd have a better chance to hit leading off the eight."

Wert singled home the first Tiger run in the fourth off Shellenback, 6-4, following a double by Al Kaline.

The Senators scored a run in the eighth on a double by Reichardt, a wild pitch, and Ed Brinkman's sacrifice fly.

Mickey Stanley added Detroit's final score in the ninth with his 10th homer.

Ironwood Youth Tops U.P. Men's Golf Tournament

SAULT STE. MARIE — Ray Kolosar, 19-year-old Ironwood golfer who made a bid for the Men's Upper Peninsula Golf Tournament championship at Menominee last year before falling back in the third round, stood as the man to beat in the 1970 tournament today at Canadian Soo Golf Club.

Kolosar held a three-stroke lead over his nearest rivals this morning as the large field of golfers from the Upper Peninsula Golf Association member clubs teed off for the second round of the 72-hole medal play tournament.

The young man from Ironwood carded a one-under-par 17 in the opening round Monday, fashining nines of 34 and 37 over the par 36-36—72 course.

A year ago, Kolosar was tied for the lead in the U.P. tournament at Menominee after 36 holes, but soared to an 82 on the third day of the tournament to fall out of contention.

Playing conditions were ideal Wednesday but golfers met difficultes on the greens and scores climbed over par.

Larry Tiziana of Ironwood and Paul Kates of Canadian Soo each carded 74, three strokes behind Kolosar, and three golfers were bracketed at 75.

Escanaba's contingent was paced by George Young of the Country Club with 78. Other scores included an 81 by Jack Smith of Highland, 82 by Mel Manske of Highland, 84 by Dave Friets of Highland and an 85 by Dick Knoll of the Country Club.

Defending champion Ken Hruska of Marquette turned in a five-over-par 77. A total of 28 golfers recorded scores of 79 or better.

The championship flight will be trimmed to the low 18 golfers after today's round for the final two rounds of the tournament Friday and Saturday.

Heynssens - Selins took an early lead in the game against River Post by scoring all five of its runs in the first inning with Warren Stanchina having the key hit, a double with the bases loaded.

River Post battled back to score three runs in the third and added three more runs in the last inning to win the all-important contest.

In the last inning, River Post scored its winning runs on singles by Monty Hurtuibise, Ralph McGeary, Phil Hiney, Wally and Dick Maranger and a double by Jim Olsen.

Phil Hiney snared the mound victory over Don Alimenti and Hiney also paced River Post at the plate with three safeties, while Earl Groleau, Roger Olsen and Pat Moran had two hits apiece for Heynssen-Selin.

In the other tournament game, Larks jumped out to a big 9-0 lead after three innings and coasted to their 10-1 truimph over Lombardi's.

Lloyd Brown went all the way and picked up the mound decision for Larks while Joe Hiller was saddled with the defeat for Lombardi's. Mike Conley paced the Lark's attack with three hits while Jay Bennett chipped in with a homer. Mike Zuidima had two safeties for Lombardies.

Oyler Mini-Hero In Angel Victory

By The Associated Press

Somewhere in baseball-barren Seattle, a small group of diehard fans surely are cheering again for Ray Oyler after he gave California fans something to cheer about for the first time.

The light-hitting shortstop, who left Seattle before the baseball team did finally made some fans in Anaheim as the mini-hero in the Angels' 7-5 victory over the Minnesota Twins in Minneapolis Wednesday night.

Jim Spencer was the big hero with two two-run homers, including the game winner in the eighth inning, as the Angels remained tied for second place and pulled within seven games of the leading Twins in the American League West.

Does The Unexpected

But it was Oyler, a fifth inning replacement for All-Star shortstop Jim Fregosi, who did the unexpected—he got a base hit—setting off the winning three-run explosion in the eighth, and then he squeezed home an insurance run in the ninth.

Oakland, tied with the Angels, kept pace with a 4-1 victory over Kansas City, while elsewhere, Baltimore slapped down Boston 3-0, Detroit tripped Washington 3-1, the New York Yankees dropped Cleveland 7-3 and the Chicago White Sox bombed Milwaukee 9-3.

The Angels, despite Spencer's two-run homer in the sixth inning, entered the eighth trailing 5-3. It was here that they must have really felt the pain in Fregosi's back, which he injured the night before and forced him out of this game.

Instead of Fregosi leading off the eighth, it was Oyler, who oddly had a rabid fan club in Seattle last season despite his .176 career batting average. After being traded first to Oakland and then sold to the Angels, he hadn't made much of a hit in Anaheim without a hit in nine times at bat.

Squeeze Play

Refusing to rest on his laurels in the ninth, Oyler squeezed in Sandy Alomar with another run.

Oakland relied on the big bat of Don Mincher and the pitching of Chuck Dobson, 13-10. Mincher hit two doubles and a single and drove in two runs behind Dobson's four-hitter.

Jim Palmer equalled his 16 victories of 1969 by clipping Boston on four hits as Baltimore won its fourth in a row and ended Sonny Siebert's personal winning string at five games.

The Yankees jumped on Sam McDowell, 16-6, with two run homers by Thurman Munson and Bobby Murcer. Then, after Ray Fosse pulled the Indians within one run in the sixth with a three-run homer, Pete Ward and Gene Michael singled in runs in the ninth and another scored on an error.

Ed Herrmann hit the first grand slam homer of his career and Jim Magnuson won his first major league game for the White Sox. Bill Melton also drove in two runs and Syd O'Brien hit a two-run homer.

Mets Use Right Ointment In 5-2 Win Over Cards

By The Associated Press

The New York Mets put ointment on Gary Gentry's blister and reliever Danny Frisella in Gentry's place as starting pitcher. It was the right treatment.

When Gentry developed a blister on his pitching hand, Frisella, also a right-hander was given his first start of the season and he worked 7 2-3 innings in the Mets' 5-3 victory over St. Louis Wednesday night.

The victory kept the Mets a game behind the first-place Pittsbargh Pirates, 4-0 winners over Philadelphia, in the National League East.

Elsewhere in the National League, Montreal beat Chicago 6-2 before the Cubs came back to win 11-3, San Francisco stopped Cincinnati 5-3, Houston shaded San Diego 4-3 in 10 innings and Los Angeles blasted Atlanta 12-2.

Frisella, who had relieved 10 times this season, stopped the Cardinals on four hits and a run until Vic Davalillo's pinch triple with two-out in the enghth. Frisella, 5-1, was relieved by Ron Taylor who gave up an RBI single to Joe Torre, making it 5-2, and then stopped St. Louis the rest of the way.

Stops Phils On 2 Hits

With the Pittsburgh starting rotation upset by injuries, Luke Walker, 8-3, joined the Pirates' relievers-turned-starters and stopped Philadelphia on two hits, singles by Jim Hutto and Mike Ryan in the sixth.

Al Oliver drove in three runs for Pittsburgh with a groundout and a two-run homer, and the Pirates' Bill Mazeroski recorded his 4,781 putout in the sixth setting a National League record for career putouts by a second baseman.

It was all Bob Bailey on offense in Montreal's first-game victory. Bailey lashed a two-run single and three-run homer to back Mike Wegener's seven-hit pitching.

Rookie Wins For Cubs

In the nightcap, Cubs' rookie southpaw Larry Gura, making his second start, won his first major league game. An RBI single by Glenn Beckert and Jim Hickman's three-run homer sent the Cubs to a 4-0 lead in the first inning. John Callison also homered for Chicago, while Rusty Staub and John Boccabella homered for Montreal.

Gaylord Perry, 15-10, stopped Cincinnati on four hits and drove in what proved to be the winning run with a sacrifice fly in the fourth. Perry no-hit the Reds until they scored on three walks and two hits in the sixth.

After Pete Rose singled with one out, three walks forced in a run and Lee May's two-out double drove in two. But Bernie Carbo was thrown out trying to score on the double, ending the inning.

Houston scored two runs in the eighth on Cesar Cedeno's RBI infield hit and shortstop Jose Arcia's throwing error and then won in the 10th on Johnny Edwards, two-out, run-scoring single.

Al Ferrara's RBI single, an error and Chris Cannizzaro's run-producting double had built a 3-0 San Diego lead.

Willie Davis cracked a bases-loaded homer and Bill Russell pounded two triples and a single enabling Los Angeles' Alan Foster to coast to his seventh victory against nine losses. Orlando Cepeda hit his 24th homer for Atlanta.

1970 U.P. State Fair Plans Six Big Days

The 1970 Upper Peninsula State Fair opening on Aug. 18 is less than two weeks away, and preparations are reaching their climax at the Fairgrounds in Escanaba—while elsewhere across the Peninsula thousands of people are getting exhibits ready for the big six-day event.

Fair Queen candidates are being sponsored by groups and organizations, young farmers are putting finishing touches on entries they will bring to the Fair, and their parents are busy with a variety of entry subjects ranging from purebred bulls to homebaked bread.

Children Free

Cliff Perras, Fair manager, reminds exhibitors they may obtain their entry numbers on Sunday, Aug. 16 and Monday, Aug. 17, in the entry office located beneath the grandstand.

"Entry clerks will be on duty from 1 to 5 p.m. on Sunday and from 9 until 5 on Monday," he reports.

"The departments will be open to accept entries during the same hours each day, and judging begins in most departments on Tuesday. Persons wishing information about entries may call 786-4011, the Fair administration office."

Gate admission at the Fair this year is unchanged at $1 per person with children under 12 free.

Persons paying the gate price in the afternoon and leaving the Fairgrounds, may request a hand stamp at the exit gates, allowing them to re-enter the Fairgrounds until 7 o'clock the same evening.

There is no charge for parking on the grounds.

Special Event Days

The Fair promises "fun for all" and here are some of the specially designated days, dedicated to those who contribute to the success of the exposition.

Tuesday, opening day, is Safety Patrol Day; Wednesday is Senior Citizens' Day; Thursday Queen's Day; Friday Governor's Day; Saturday is Farmers' Day; and Sunday, with free grandstand show in the afternoon and stock car races at night is simply Last Day of the Fair.

The entertainment will include everything from a greased pig scramble and youth contests, demolition derby, Youth Coffee House, square dancing, and the Battle of the Combo Bands to horse pulling, the Fair Queen contest finals, and the traditional visit of Michigan's Governor.

Grandstand Shows

These and the many other events of Fair Week are spelled out on place mats that have been dstributed throughout the region, advertising the attractions of the exposition.

The grandstand stage will offer a variety of entertainment, with many country and western stars appearing.

Grandstand shows (admission $1, children under 12 free) will feature George Jones and the Jones Boys on Wednesday afternoon; and Bobby Vinton on Friday.

Free grandstand shows include special events Tuesday afternoon, Battle of the Combo Bands and the Fair Queen contest finals, horse pulling, and on Sunday afternoon the Dick Rodgers Polka Band.

Park Disturbance Investigation Is Asked By Council

MENOMINEE — A full investigation of the incident which occurred on the Marina Sunday night at the conclusion of the Blessing of the Watercraft celebration was called for at the regular meeting of the Menominee City Council Monday night.

Fifth Ward Alderman Joseph Banach requested the action, saying that the incident should not be taken too lightly. He said that something went wrong and that steps should be taken to determine why, to prevent a reoccurrence.

Banach suggested that the Public Safety Committee, as well as any one else the Mayor would appoint head the investigation. Banach said that the investigation should obtain all the facts for review and possible action.

Mayor Jerome Nesbitt noted that an investigation was already underway, involving himself, Police Chief Ervin Mouritsen, persons involved with the Blessing of the Watercraft Committee, youths involved in the disturbance and others. He said the investigation will be reported to the Public Safety Committee for proper action later.

The disturbance erupted about 7:30 p.m., Sunday, after an encounter between youths and police that resulted in Mouritsen declaring an emergency curfew at 7:50 p.m., and orders to clear the park. Later, police, some outfitted with riot helmets and clubs, drove about 500 youths and adults from the park.

Briefly Told

State Police reported today that a camp owned by Herbert Seymour, Rte. 2 Bark River, had been broken into and a rifle stolen. The incident is still under investigation.

A 500-pound Black Angus steer, which was owned by Rhyder Anderson of Rte. 2 Rapid River, was killed and stolen from the barnyard early Wednesday morning. State Police are investigating the theft.

The Escanaba Lions Club is accepting a limited number of reservations from the public by couples for the Green Bay Packers-New York Giants football game Saturday in Green Bay. Charter buses will leave Escanaba at 3:30 p.m. with a dinner stop enroute. For information and reservations contact Dave Andrews, 786-6470.

Marriage license applications have been taken out at the County Clerk's office by Philip Vincent Dambrosia, 408 S. 16th St., and Jean Clare Hamelin, 1202 N. 16th St.; Lawrence R. Deno, Rte. 1 Escanaba, and Dorene Kay Maulsby, Rte. 1 Escanaba; Gary Wayne Robinson, West Branch, and Cynthia Marianne Niemi, Rte. 1 Rock; John Manzer Way, 1102 10th Ave. S., and Leilan Jo Norton, 1230 S. 14th St.; Paul Francis VanDamme, 308 Minnesota Ave., Gladstone, and Christine Marie Vandecavoye, Rte. 1 Rock.

Voters Approve Millage Request For Youth Camp

IRON RIVER — A request for one-half mill for three years for operation and maintenance of the Iron County Youth Camp was approved by voters by an unoffical 2,065-1,603 count.

The tally is minus the votes of the Bates Township precinct, but the precinct does not have enough voters to affect the decision.

The approval of the millage will raise approximately $26,000 for continued operation of the camp which had begun to suffer financially as the board of commissioners was unable to allocate sufficient funds to maintain the facility.

The stiffest opposition to the issue came from Caspian City and Mansfield. Mastodon and Hematite townships.

Charge Dismissed Against Fisherman In District Court

A charge filed against Roger Tallman, Fayette, for fishing in a restricted area was dismissed in District Court this morning by Judge Dean Shipman.

Judge Shipman said that he dismissed the charge because he found that no crime had been committed and that in light of the facts produced before him, Tallman had complied with his license restrictions.

A motion was made Wednesday by Prosecuting Attorney John Beauchamp to dismiss another charge filed against Tallman for failing to exhibit his license.

Tallman had been living in Munising when the alleged incidents were to have occurred at Fairport in March.

Crime-Fighting Funds Misused?

WASHINGTON (AP) — A National Urban Coalition study released today asserts federal anticrime money grants have little chance of preventing or reducing crime.

Most funds are spent on police hardware at the expense of such programs as court reform, narcotics control and juvenile treatment, the study said.

The Urban Coalition, a private group, studied 12 states participating in the program set up by the Crime Control and Safe Streets Act of 1968.

In 1969, $63 million was made available to the states for creating state planning agencies and funding action programs to improve operation of state and local criminal justice agencies. In 1970, $268 million was appropriated.

President Nixon has said the coming budget will be $450 million to $500 million.

Market Declines; Trading Is Slow

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market drifted moderately lower early this afternoon in slow trading.

At noon the Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was off 2.12 at 722.69.

Declines held a sizable margin over advances on the Big Board.

Some analysts said they expected further drifting on the downside until some news development breaks the pattern or the market builds up enough internal strength to attempt a technical rally.

Meanwhile, chartists said the 715-720 area of the Dow appeared to offer sufficient support to provide a bottom for the near term.

At noon the Associated Press 60-stock average was off 1.1 at 239.2, with industrials off 1.9, rails off 0.5, and utilities off 0.4.

Bettie L. Butt Wins Nomination

Republican voters in Ford River Township had a hard time deciding between trustee candidates Richard A. Shibley and Bettie L. Butt, as each received 25 votes in Tuesday's primary telection.

Both candidates were called in to the County Clerk's office Wednesday for a drawing and Mrs. Butt received the nomination to run in November's general election.

Draftees With Numbers Under 195 May Go

WASHINGTON (AP) — Draft Director Curtis W. Tarr said today lottery number 195 apparently will be the highest called in the 1970 draft.

Tarr set 195 as the ceiling for draft calls in September—the same as in August—and said it apparently will rmain stable for the rest of the year.

That means that eligible men who drew numbers higher than 195 in the draft lottery held last December and who were exposed to the draft this year are virtually safe from induction.

Barring any unforeseen emergency, Tarr's announcement means the end of a tense waiting period for men holding those upper numbers.

In 1971 a new group will be exposed to the draft—those who drew lottery numbers in the second drawing, held July 1.

Tarr's announcement coincided with that of the Defense Department's notice of draft calls for the rest of the year: 12,000 for September; 12,000 for October; 8,000 for November, and 7,000 for December.

Those figures will bring the total draft for 1970 to 163,500 men, the lowest annual draft since the start of the Vietnam war.

The Selective Service System had anticipated the leveling off of the draft lottery numbers being called as formerly deferred men—mainly graduating college students—lost their deferments and became available.

MARQUETTE—If there ever was any doubt that the people of the Upper Peninsula are against antlerless deer hunting, it was wiped out Tuesday.

Voters in Marquette and Alger counties buried the question under an avalanche of ballots.

In Marquette County, with three out of 46 precincts missing, 4,734 persons voted in favor of a proposal to ban the hunting of does and fawns in the county for two years. Only 702 voted against the proposal. That's a monumental margin of almost 7 to 1.

In Alger County, the vote was even more decisive — 1,625 in favor of the proposal and a minuscule 179 against it. That figures out to a whopping 9 to 1 margin.

The proposal carried in every precinct in both counties. In one precinct—Turin Township in Marquette County — not a single vote was cast against the proposal. Only one out of 20 votes cast in Marquette County's West Branch Township opposed the moratorium. In Alger County's Au Train Township, 125 voted for banning antlerless hunting, while only four were not in favor of a halt.

The question was placed on the ballot by action of the county boards of commissioners and was advisory only, but it disclosed how strongly the vast majority of the public opposes antlerless deer seasons.

1970 U.P. State Fair Plans Six Big Days

The 1970 Upper Peninsula State Fair opening on Aug. 18 is less than two weeks away, and preparations are reaching their climax at the Fairgrounds in Escanaba—while elsewhere across the Peninsula thousands of people are getting exhibits ready for the big six-day event.

Fair Queen candidates are being sponsored by groups and organizations, young farmers are putting finishing touches on entries they will bring to the Fair, and their parents are busy with a variety of entry subjects ranging from purebred bulls to homebaked bread.

Children Free

Cliff Perras, Fair manager, reminds exhibitors they may obtain their entry numbers on Sunday, Aug. 16 and Monday, Aug. 17, in the entry office located beneath the grandstand.

"Entry clerks will be on duty from 1 to 5 p.m. on Sunday and from 9 until 5 on Monday,' he reports.

"The departments will be open to accept entries during the same hours each day, and judging begins in most departments on Tuesday. Persons wishing information about entries may call 786-4011, the Fair administration office."

Gate admission at the Fair this year is unchanged at $1 per person with children under 12 free.

Persons paying the gate price in the afternoon and leaving the Fairgrounds, may request a hand stamp at the exit gates, allowing them to re-enter the Fairgrounds until 7 o'clock the same evening.

There is no charge for parking on the grounds.

Special Event Days

The Fair promises "fun for all" and here are some of the specially designated days, dedicated to those who contribute to the success of the exposition.

Tuesday, opening day, is Safety Patrol Day; Wednesday is Senior Citizens' Day; Thursday Queen's Day; Friday Governor's Day; Saturday is Farmers' Day; and Sunday, with free grandstand show in the afternoon and stock car races at night is simply Last Day of the Fair.

The entertainment will include everything from a greased pig scramble and youth contests, demolition derby, Youth Coffee House, square dancing, and the Battle of the Combo Bands to horse pulling, the Fair Queen contest finals, and the traditional visit of Michigan's Governor.

Grandstand Shows

These and the many other events of Fair Week are spelled out on place mats that have been dstributed throughout the region, advertising the attractions of the exposition.

The grandstand stage will offer a variety of entertainment, with many country and western stars appearing.

Grandstand shows (admission $1, children under 12 free) will feature George Jones and the Jones Boys on Wednesday afternoon; and Bobby Vinton on Friday.

Free grandstand shows include special events Tuesday afternoon, Battle of the Combo Bands and the Fair Queen contest finals, horse pulling, and on Sunday afternoon the Dick Rodgers Polka Band.

Park Disturbance Investigation Is Asked By Council

MENOMINEE — A full investigation of the incident which occurred on the Marina Sunday night at the conclusion of the Blessing of the Watercraft celebration was called for at the regular meeting of the Menominee City Council Monday night.

Fifth Ward Alderman Joseph Banach requested the action, saying that the incident should not be taken too lightly. He said that something went wrong and that steps should be taken to determine why, to prevent a reoccurrence.

Banach suggested that the Public Safety Committee, as well as any one else the Mayor would appoint head the investigation. Banach said that the investigation should obtain all the facts for review and possible action.

Mayor Jerome Nesbitt noted that an investigation was already underway, involving himself, Police Chief Ervin Mouritsen, persons involved with the Blessing of the Watercraft Committee, youths involved in the disturbance and others. He said the investigation will be reported to the Public Safety Committee for proper action later.

The disturbance erupted about 7:30 p.m., Sunday, after an encounter between youths and police that resulted in Mouritsen declaring an emergency curfew at 7:50 p.m., and orders to clear the park. Later, police, some outfitted with riot helmets and clubs, drove about 500 youths and adults from the park.

Briefly Told

State Police reported today that a camp owned by Herbert Seymour, Rte. 2 Bark River, had been broken into and a rifle stolen. The incident is still under investigation.

A 500-pound Black Angus steer, which was owned by Rhyder Anderson of Rte. 2 Rapid River, was killed and stolen from the barnyard early Wednesday morning. State Police are investigating the theft.

The Escanaba Lions Club is accepting a limited number of reservations from the public by couples for the Green Bay Packers-New York Giants football game Saturday in Green Bay. Charter buses will leave Escanaba at 3:30 p.m. with a dinner stop enroute. For information and reservations contact Dave Andrews, 786-6470.

Marriage license applications have been taken out at the County Clerk's office by Philip Vincent Dambrosia, 408 S. 16th St., asd Jean Clare Hamelin, 1202 N. 16th St.; Lawrence R. Deno, Rte. 1 Escanaba, and Dorene Kay Maulsby, Rte. 1 Escanaba; Gary Wayne Robinson, West Branch, and Cynthia Marianne Niemi, Rte. 1 Rock; John Manzer Way 1102 10th Ave. S., and Leilani Jo Norton, 1230 S. 14th St.; Paul Francis VanDamme, 308 Minnesota Ave., Gladstone, and Christine Marie Vandecaveye, Rte. 1 Rock.

Voters Approve Millage Request For Youth Camp

IRON RIVER — A request for one-half mill for three years for operation and maintenance of the Iron County Youth Camp was approved by voters by an unoffiical 2,065-1,603 count.

The tally is minus the votes of the Bates Township precinct, but the precinct does not have enough voters to affect the decision.

The approval of the millage will raise approximately $26,000 for continued operation of the camp which had begun to suffer financially as the board of commissioners was unable to allocate sufficient funds to maintain the facility.

The stiffest opposition to the issue came from Caspian City and Mansfield, Mastodon and Hematite townships.
